LONDON NOTES By The Air Mail

(From a Correspondent)

London, Jan. 28. Some of the most important 19th century political meetings were held at garden parties in big country houses. Disraeli, in particular, liked this type of venue. Mr. Baldwin is to follow in the steps of that great Tory leader. This summer, in June and July, he will address three big Conservative meetings at country houses.

The first will be at Himeley Hall, which Lord Dudley lent to the Duke and Duchess of Kent for their honeymoon, and the second at Bramham Park, in Yorkshire, the home of his old friend Lord Bingley, formerly Col. Lane-Fox. The third will be held in Essex, at Stanstead Hall, Halstead. The house belongs to Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary of State for India.

Doyen of the Court

Sir Derek Keppel has left for a cruise to the West Indies. It does not surprise his friends that he has been driven to seek warmer latitudes at this season. He has been a victim of rheumatism for several years.

If I am not mistaken, Sir Derek may now claim to be doyen of the Household officials. He has been associated with the King for 42 years.

Site for the Burghers

My remarks on the obscurity to which Rodin's "Burghers of Calais" is condemned in Westminster Palace Gardens has brought me various suggestions for a more suitable site.

Among them is one of the grass plots outside the National Gallery. On that to the east George Washington now stands in lonely eminence. The other is untenanted.

If the Burghers were removed to the latter place and set—as in Calais—on a more lowly pedestal they would be very much in the public eye. They would also give dignity to what is—at least in the winter—a dingy spot.

Choosing Between Brothers

The question whether the successor to the late Mr. Justice Bateon should come from the Divorce or the Admiralty Bar is now being discussed.

As only about 2 per cent of the cases in the Probate, Admiralty, and Divorce Division concern shipping, the Divorce judges should, on the face of it, be in a majority.

But at the time of Mr. Justice Bateon's death—exactly the reverse was the case, both Mr. Justice Bateon and Mr. Justice Langton having formerly been at the Admiralty Bar.

It is rather piquant that the choice now seems to lie between two brothers, Mr. A. T. Bucknill, of the Admiralty Bar, and Mr. T. Bucknill of the Divorce Bar.

While the authorities are trying to make up their minds between the two, not a single divorce or probate case is being tried.

From Secretary to Wife
Miss Madeline Glasier, Mr. James Maxton's intended bride, has been a member of the I.L.P. for about 13 years. During 11 of these she has been Mr. Maxton's unpaid secretary.

Unlike her future husband, Miss Glasier does not shine on the platform. After trying it once she decided then and there that it was not her métier. She is, on the other hand, very much at home when conducting correspondence from the "secretaries' room at St. Stephen's.

Senior members of the Socialist movement may wonder if Miss Glasier, who is a B.Sc. of London University, is of the family of old-time Glasiers, a relative of Bruce and Katherine. She is not. The name is merely a coincidence.

Remodelling the City Temple
The City Temple, now to be brought up to date to meet the needs of the centripetal movement of population which Dr. Norwood, its minister, foresees, is the successor of a more ancient Congregational building in the City, the Poultry Chapel.

It seats some 2,500 people. When the site was purchased about 60 years ago, for $25,000 much controversy was aroused by the action of the action of the City Corporation.

In view of the fact that some $256,000 in all was to be spent, and "to evince its interest in so great a movement," it resolved to present a pulpit "to be for ever held as the commemorative gift of the Corporation of London."

The pulpit, of white marble, cost $500, and will presumably be retained in the new interior.

The City Temple has had two notably famous pastors in Dr. Parker and Dr. R. J. Campbell.

Keeping the Tap Open
Lord Forbes, who will be 20 next April, intends to celebrate his birthday with an attempt to regain for this country the world's outboard motor-boat record.

Ever since he first learnt to handle a speed-boat, at the age of 12, Lord Forbes has been keen on racing. Although still Britain's youngest pilot, he has several important Continental successes to his credit.

The record stands at 85 m.p.h. Lord Forbes is counting on reaching 70 at least. Such a speed in an outboard boat is comparable, I am told, to about 130 in one of Miss America's size.

To control a 14 ft hydroplane at 70 m.p.h. will call for nerve and a high degree of driving skill. A motor-boating friend, however, assures me that "young Forbes can be relied on to keep the tap wide open."

Lord Forbes is the Earl of Granard's eldest son.

THEN AND NOW

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 28. Though Lord Rosebery is a polo player and a distinguished cricketer—at one time he captained Surrey—he has not hitherto been associated with golf.

Now that he has become captain of the Wentworth Golf Club there is an incentive for him to develop his skill at ball games in another direction.

In any case he cannot confess to the same utter ignorance of the art as the late Lord Rosebery did when he opened a new club-house at the Barmston Links, near Edinburgh.

Nor will the present Lord Rosebery be able to use his father's joke about "the distinguished statesman charged with giving too much time to golf, and not enough to the House of Commons."

This was timed at Lord Balfour. Nowadays, at least half the Cabinet would have been open to the same accusation.

LAND SPEED RECORD ATTEMPT

Sir M. Campbell's Hopes Of 300 M.P.H.

Miami Beach (Florida).

Sir Malcolm Campbell, who is shortly going to Daytona to make another attempt on his world land speed record of 212.48 miles per hour in his remodelled Bluebird, has written to Mr. L. Warren Baker, the zone representative of the American Automobile Association, suggesting that he will also endeavour to break other records besides the measured mile.

He said that this will largely depend on the state of the beach and the possibility of extending the length of the course.

He also stated that he hoped to cover the measured mile at 300 miles per hour. The date of the attempt has been tentatively fixed for February 20 or 21.

ROUND THE SHOPS

LANE CRAWFORD

Have just received a wonderful selection of Hand bags—Ideal for the Races—really they are the nicest lot of bags I've seen anywhere, in all the latest materials and leathers—as for the styles, it's the very latest.

There were pigskin ones—coloured straws and beautiful lea-thers in pale shades—absolutely the bag for the coming warm weather—and the prices are most reasonable

MAIZEE

It's a little too cold just now to think about the bathing season—but one couldn't help looking at the snappy new swimming costumes, caps, slacks, shorts, and shoes, in fact Maizee has just received everything that one would require for the beach. My advice is to get what you want now as one does not get the same choice later on.

EVE'S

If you are looking for a good, smart, and reasonable hat to go to the Races, Eve will supply you with just the hat.

MAYO'S

Have some very pretty new straws that would make up beautifully, as the ones on display, were very attractive.

SUITS, SPRING SURPRISES

Spring suits are coming out in checks all over, according to the new issue of Vogue. And pastel colours for day are news. Stripes, too, have an honoured
place in the spring picture.
Binding sets a smart seal on your suit by emphasising new lines.
It is particularly happy with checks, giving just that plain accent which the eye seems to need. And contrast of every sort. Try contrasting your fabrics as well as your colours.

PARIS FASHIONS

Winter Designs For The South

The dressmakers in the Rue de la Paix are now busy choosing new materials and making new designs for the spring and summer fashions which will be shown at the end of the month and the beginning of February.

Many people are going away, or have already gone to winter sports, the Riviera, or Egypt. Useful woollen outfits for sport have been provided, and late afternoon dresses and capes in silks and velvet are as necessary for the Riviera as are sumptuous evening dresses and furs. A trousseau which went south last week included several "satin" evening dresses, which were to be worn with an "exceptionally fine pink cape" in which the skins were worked vertically. There was a white satin dress cut to princess lines, gently following the curves of the figure and falling to a long pointed train behind. The neckline is cut to a deep point at the back, and in front has the becoming "owl" bow drapery. It has no trimming, further than the stitchings and incrustations which give it shape about the hips, front, and back of the skirt.

Coloured flowers, coloured jewels, or a coloured belt or sash may be worn with it, and then there is the cape to give it a formal evening richness.

Quite different in style is a dress in one of the new shot tartans in "peacock blues." It is made with a very full umbrella skirt and a little basqued bodice, which has a folded fichu that forms a short sleeve and leaves a rounded neckline. Turnovers are worn with it.

Pale coloured crepe dresses are much worn for dancing, with skirts which are full about the feet and slim about the hips and to the knee. The necklines are usually cut lower at the back than at the front. The Victorian neckline which slips off the shoulders is also worn. Dresses with ele-ves which are full and puffed or wing shaped, are as much worn as dresses with no sleeves at all,
and the long, mitten sleeve in lace velvet for sequin net dresses is looked on with favour in black or dark blue.

Accessories After The Fact Of Smartness

The Optimist

A man was announcing to his friends at the club that he was going to be married shortly.
"Well, old man," remarked one of his listeners, "I hope you'll be very happy."
"I don't see why I shouldn't," was the reply. "I came through this war all right."

Felt hats with draped and folded crowns and irregular brims are worn with cashmere scarves in a colour, or colour, to match.
The scarves are tied in different ways to suit the coat, jacket, or dress with which they go. Winter overcoats are all worn open at the neck to show the warm, bright scarf at the neck. Grey is coming back, and with blue, will be fashionable in spring.

Accessories After The Fact Of Smartness

Modern Jewellery is bold. Anything small and finely wrought looks old-fashioned. It is also simple. Solid stone pieces are conspicuous, and metal is used sparingly.

Shoes reach a new high point.

evening, they're slowly but surely

The value of Bovril lies not only in its power to restore strength and energy after illness, but also in its proved power to build up the forces that resist infection and prevent it from getting a hold.
Do not wait till illness has undermined your health;
re-inforce it now by taking Bovril regularly.

Handbags Show Great Variety

In Shape And Colour.

Modern handbags are a continual revelation of the ingenuity of designers and manufacturers of this all-important item in a well-dressed woman's ensemble. Leatherware is being treated in novel ways and dyed in many new colours. For the average woman, the great charm and attraction which stands out in a general survey of 1935 handbag fashions is the fact that however lovely and expensive exclusive designs may be, there are equally good values in vogue and quality, to be seen among cheaper bags.

The general trend of fashion is shown in the flat and compact bag, not too large, although colours and shapes are varied to an infinite degree. There are bags square and oblong, oval and circular, and the streamlined boat-shape which is one of the newcomers. This streamlined effect is introduced in fastenings and openings, handles and chromium touches in bags of all shapes and sizes.

Colour is an outstanding feature of the leathers and other materials used, and the new shades are most artistic—not in the least harsh and flamboyant. There are exquisite reds, for instance, when the bag is destined to strike
a vivid note of colour in an ensemble; pale greens, greys, and a wide range of beige tones are to be found. In bags of this type the finishing touches, the "trimming" in trade parlance, prove interesting. Quiet contrasts are used in specially prepared metals, a silver gray, copper or silver lacquer, and for the more elaborate bags in antelope or the new rippled leather, solid marcasite is introduced with silver gilt, or in alliance with colour in the form of some plastic composition.

Red and jade green crocodile are new ideas for the handbag of practical dimensions; morocco in cream and the off whites as well as in darker shades, fine seal and long grain calf, pleated hide and mocha are other leathers which are prominent among the latest designs. Sometimes a smooth and a raised leather surface are used in contrast on the same bag.

Specialist Designs

There are bags for all occasions, from the fitted handbag especially designed for the woman golfer, bridge fan, and racegoer, to the business woman's handbag, and handbags for all types of dress ensembles.

One clever bag designer and maker has introduced a charming conceit in the way of floral sprays in the same materials to wear when the matching handbag is carried. For daytime a bag in black and white calf cleverly cut in "eclipse" curves has its leather spray of flowers to match. A rosette bag in rose-coloured calf is also accompanied by a rose leather buttonhole. Sometimes the flowers take up the metal note on the handbag. An attractive modernistic gold chrysanthemum with black leather foliage designed to be worn with a black calf handbag with a gold plated fastener. An idea for the evening is in delicate pastel colours worked in leather and pearl embroidery on satin. With this there is a flowing spray of convolvulus made of feathers.

SPRING BRIDE CHOOSES HER COLOURS

White, Ice Blue And Deep Cream Are Preferred

Wedding pageantry has reached its height of late in the case of Royal brides—the success of such splendour has been so great that some of the taller types of bride are following on similar though less magnificent lines. The beauty of white always appeals. The ice-blue milky shade looks lovely when worn by some girls. Others may require the rich ivory tones, or the off-the-white warmer that has a scrap of beige or pink in its blend. There are many wonderful woven silver and white brocades, crepe satins with a metal weave and charm with a faille finish.

Long associated with weddings is the rich creamy satin of a texture that once stood alone in the old phraseology. The newer way is to have that same heavy thick satin but more pliable and drapable. Many spring brides will choose this traditional fabric treated in the new manner. There is no better background for valuable lace, and we shall see much fine lace worn this season by both the young and old, the bride and the debutante. Tulle, too, always the most lovely background for the bridal veil, is much used, but of a slightly firmer texture and rendered stiffer by occasional lines of silver thread. Silver will more than ever be favoured at this year's weddings. Charming are the woven silvery brocades. A recent country bride had selected a woven somewhat faint silvery spot in the softest and palest of pink lame.

Two Types

There will be two distinctive types in bridal robes for spring and summer, the stately medieval effect in brocade, satin, or velvet cut in the classic streamline. A Medici collar will be found in better keeping with the long moulded sleeves and sheaf of lilies or prayer book. The Medici collar of lace gives a great dignity and permits of necklet or rope of pearls being worn to advantage.

The bridal neckline will follow the vogue of importance in this detail. The bateau-line suits youth, so does the slightly embroidered rounded shape with the neckline high and draped on the collarless finish. The jewels also can influence the choice; but for picturesque pageantry I prefer the Medici-like collar, providing the bride is tall and chooses the medieval style of gown, with girdle. The more usual princess wedding gown is cut in one long line, shaped, but without any form of band or girdle. There may be a train suspended from the shoulders instead of being cut in one. With a view to a future "Court," this is a more practical wedding fashion.

The beauty of the Infanta Beatrice of Spain's ultra-long train was enhanced by a deep border of white ermine, but the average bride would probably prefer a narrower effect, or possibly an edging of white ostrich. I noticed an effective design in an off-the-white (just tinted pink) lame splashed with silver that was simply draped to the throat in the front, but from a tiny square ostrich feathery capelet at the back there came a square train of the same lame edged with an insertion of pink feather, hem-stitched on by silver thread. With floating veil of palest pink tulle this was a very becoming frock.

Taffeta Vogue

The petite bride of 1935 will be well catered for. For her will be the much-talked-of taffeta—that bouffant sort of ultra-feminine frock with light and exquisite laces caught here and there by bunches of tulle and floral petals. The faintest tones of blue and of pink may possibly compete with the traditional white. Crepe-satin and faille suits these new lace draperies. Taffeta and lace draperies however, fascinating will not however, prove so popular as the dignified severer streamline elegance.

White faille flaked with silver is a favoured fabric and would make up well in either style. The chiffon robe may be a choice of the later season. Chiffon is lovely when veiling a satin or taffeta, but the latter has a more old-world flavour. Rosalba crepe is a new material, pleasing for the bride or her maids.

My advice to the coming bride is to be faithful to a definite bridal scheme and insist firmly on her entourage being likewise. If it is to be a pageant of stately lines and medieval magnificence, let the maids be clothed in fabric of similar trend. On the other hand, should the bride be piquant in the ethereal picturesque trend of the eighteenth or nineteenth century, let her insist on her maids being "bouffant" in taffeta and net, so that the light gay note prevails throughout in colour and material.

There is already a great feeling for the taffeta fete and evening frocks. With their fanciful trimming and fuller skirts, they are fascinating.

Preview Of The Mode

Capes for day and night, in every length. Chiffon for evening. Heelless evening slippers. Dusty pastels for day and night. Taffeta for suits and scarfs and blouses.

JEWELLERY AGAIN

The Clip And The Locket

With the increasingly high necks the bead necklace at sixpence a time is waning in popularity. Real stones—jade, coral, especially white—or materials such as ivory are still welcomed; but mere glass is yielding not only to crystal, amethyst, amber, marquisite, but also to an entirely new form of jewellery. The many scarves worn can easily become displaced, and as they often take the place of collars or neckpieces generally it is important to keep them in position. For this purpose clasps are used, usual diamond or of bright metal. If the scarf is tied high round the neck one clip holds one side of the scarf high up while the other hold it on the other side lower down. Thus clips almost serve the original purpose of "pepins." Anything may have a clip which holds something in place and lends a point of light. Clips are much like the old brooches in effect, and brooches are actually coming back again.

Another revival is the locket. Locket used to hang equally

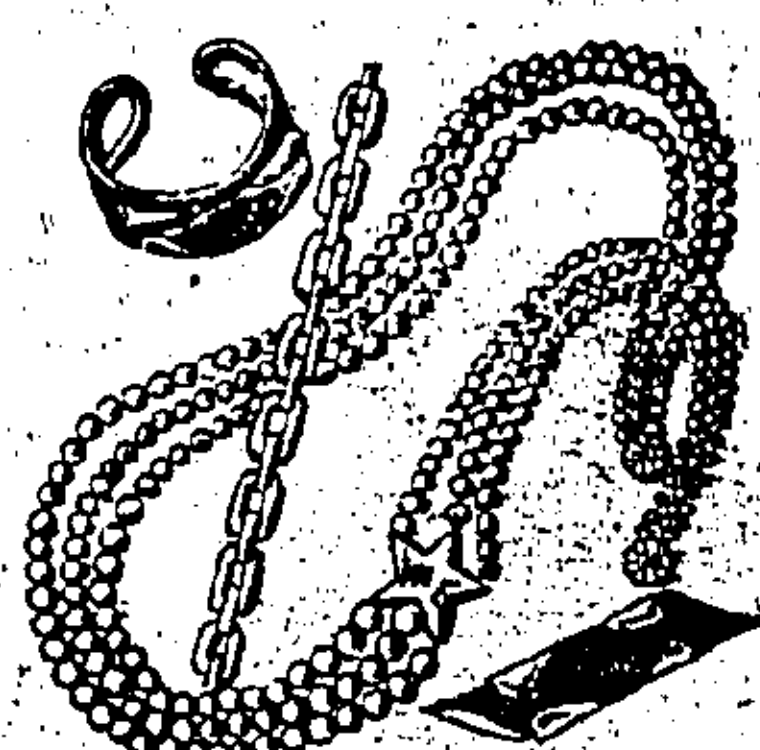

WE'RE TELLING YOU

ON YOUR HEAD

Sliced crowns or bonnets? Many of the new crowns are sliced off flat either in front or right off the top. This treatment is particularly noticeable in sports hats which have moderately wide brims. The alternative line is the poke bonnet with an upward and forward movement, primarily designed to show our fringes. Another new line predicted for spring is the Breton sailor—but wide brimmed, slightly turned up and worn almost at the back of the head.

ROUND YOUR NECK

Bold touches of white will be seen—in wool, satin, pique and what you will. A white flannel blouse is tied at the neck with a band of blue and white webbing. A white jersey blouse has a red jersey scarf; a white satin blouse has a high collar composed of black, green and yellow ribbon bands; another has a dotted scarlet collar. Dickies of white pique in satin will accompany spring suits. Plaids are to be seen as well—a fringed scarf of plaid satin on a black satin afternoon gown.

LIVING IN GLASS

Cinderella is outdone. Cellophane is the order of the day. We have already seen sandals in multi-coloured cellophane glass; a hat with a felt crown and transparent brim; a black cellophane evening bag and gloves; Cellophane in pink for a sleeveless jacket, belted with multi-coloured flowers; in yellow for a sash and flowers, with a dark blue evening gown. Transparent all-iances are made: a black tulle cape on a gleaming yoke; white Cellophane jacket with puffed tulle sleeves.

TAILORED TULLE

Tulle isn't only for frills and fantasies, though we love those tulle ruffs slipping off the shoulders. It is also used for gowns of tailored severity: black net cut with a tight-fitting bodice fastened with diamond buttons and a red velvet bow at the throat; black net over taffeta, cut into a train, the entire back bare save for one thickness of tulle which also makes wrist-length sleeves; a straight ankle-length tulle gown, its even hem weighted with a band of sable.

EVENING SLEEVES

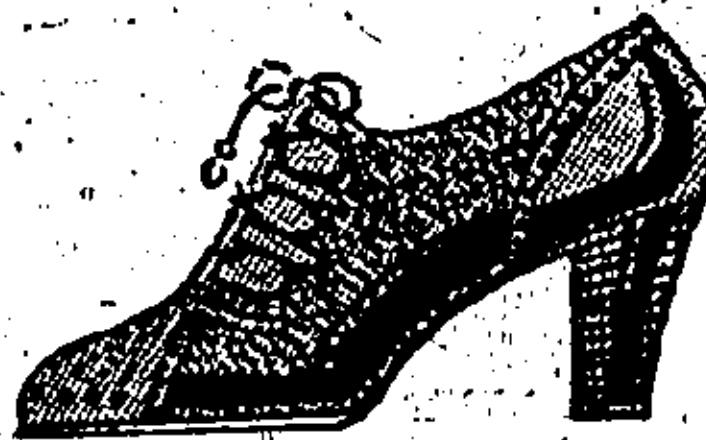

Wrist-length sleeves grace the newest dinner dresses. They are often full only from elbow to wrist, as on a blackless black crepe gown with a red sequin bib high in front; or on a white evening gown with a high scarlet collar and five scarlet bands bordering its raglan sleeves. A violet blue satin gown has long tight sleeves and a bolero of rose and blue paillettes. Evening coats show interesting sleeves too. Horizontal scarlet stitching stripes the raglan sleeves of a purplish-blue satin coat.

MONK'S COWL

Several of the new coats have monk's cowls which are worn over the top of the head so that the edge gives a kind of bandeau effect. A long black velvet evening coat, for instance, with a train and full bell sleeves, has a cowl which frames the wearer's face. A three-quarters pale blue satin evening wrap has a cowl in the same satin; sometimes these cowls are lined with a contrasting colour. Even tweed capes are designed with hoods, made either of the same material or of flat fur.

DRAWSTRING NECKLINES

You will draw your dress in round your neck as if it were a sponge bag. Sometimes a cord is run through the top and tied at the back; sometimes the neckline is cut very high so that it stands up under your chin like a pile frill. The peasant blouse idea runs right through fashion wearing capes are made out of a straight piece of material with a cord strung through the top. Evening coats with raglan sleeves sloping all the way up into high cut necklines are held in the same way.

ON YOUR FEET

There is a movement to heighten the vamp. Tongues have reappeared on pumps—as in a black shoe with a double tongue lined with white, or in a black velvet evening pump with a high, definitely eighteenth century tongue piped with gold kid. Brilliant coloured evening sandals show the influence of the Oxford rather than the Greek sandal—they are toe-less but laced over the foot and have ankle straps. Our summer shoes will be made of flax—watch out for this material in all colours.

HOW TO WEAR THE HOMBURG

The Spurt Forward

The boat-shaped toque is making a dash forward. In doing this the movement is accentuated by a quill, ostrich feather tip, or ribbon bow, shot through the apex of the crown. These motifs lie flat, and it is only when the Watteau and Manon shapes appear that trimmings actually take a perky attitude.

The former shape is almost true to type, and one in organdie "straw," that is to say, organdie plaited to look like paillasson, has a flower of white cellophane emphasising the back brimmed perch.

The "Manon" is flat-topped and elongated, with a slight bend in the middle showing an apex ornament of two nacre flower-heads in two tones of pink set back to back on black and a strap terminating in a bow to keep it on.

Cork in the form of ribbon wends its way round the crown of a navy blue felt "Homburg," the 1935 "Homburg" with a suppressed crown, and worn in the correct forward way. New trimmings are in nacre, and there are cellophane floral motifs and Cupid wings. There is one boat-shaped-toque style of glistening blue cellophane straw with pink moss roses set at one side of the back uplift.

Reeds worked up into rounds on taffeta are another idea in trimming for a shape that has a low crown and lop-sided brim aspect. The clerical biretta supplants the tricorne in small and wide shapes. One in the latter group pitches the brim forward and affix with short levers up at the side. This is a new form for tailored hat lines, while Jane Austen might have invoked a little sporting shape of felt with a short brim turning up all round beneath a round crown and above a chin strap.

Fashion Ignores The Waist

FROCKS FOR THE OLDER WOMAN

"Why are you so ungenerous to the woman of forty who is a little ashamed of her waistline?" a reader wrote the other day. "Surely there must be some models in the thousands that are made every year which would suit us, yet they are very hard to find."

Well, here's my answer—two frocks which are frankly for the woman who isn't proud of her waist measurements.

Fortunately, fashion this year has concentrated on giving a nice Mini-hip line and left the waist to take care of itself.

LONDON FASHIONS

Variety In Hats

High-crowned hats are more and more reserved for the morning; of soft woollen materials to match a suit, the brims are finished with many rows of stitching or with wool embroidery. Soft felt makes a hat with a flared circular brim and pointed crown; a small tassel falls from the tip and repeats the colour of the scarf or blouse. A hat to be worn with a suit of cinnamon-brown and blouse of duck's-egg-blue with a tuck-in scarf is in a similar blue and has a rolled double brim and crown dented in front; a small brown feather nestles in the fold in front, and there is a short brown eye veil of horsehair.

For more formal wear there will be little low hats, often of felt, round or oval, and tipped forward over the right eye and with a touch of trimming; or a short veil of horsehair standing out. Height is suggested by the folds, and trimming may be given by cellophane embroidery or thickly padded borders. A small pill-box cap is made of plaited black felt and cellophane; here a stiffened veil stands well out.

There will be early spring turbans of bright velvet or crepe to go with formal afternoon dresses. A ruby-red velvet toque tipped well forward, slightly pointed and trimmed with a little tuft of black feathers at the tip, is to be worn with a plain black frock. A black velvet pill-box hat, also to be worn with a plain black afternoon gown, has coloured tassels, two, in shades of green and one in red, falling over the hair at each side.

Taffetas plain and cloqué is another hat material. A small hat with close-fitting crown and long visor front with a slightly one-sided effect is of fuchsia and blue checked taffetas; the flaring scarf is of the same taffetas, and the narrow ends join with a small bow at the back.

While the line will be off the face, the brim will be turned back more to one side and more widely flaring. There are also bonnet effects which may be cut to nothing at the back and flare away from the face in front. The line of the brim, plain or softly gathered, is often lifted to show the forehead and some of the hair. Brimmed hats, as light as a feather, are made of plain and cloqué taffetas, with up-standing folds and pleats to give width to the base of the crown and stitched and padded edges to soften the brim.

A CUCKOO IN THE NEST

Entertaining Farce
At The King's

Imagine that you are a young man with a beautiful wife. That you leave your wife in a railway carriage whilst you go to the book-stall and there you meet an old "fame" of yours, the said meeting being witnessed by your wife. Still carrying on with the imaginative business, imagine that the train goes off without you and that by a co-incidence the lady you have met is bound for the same destination as yourself. There are no more trains that day so you hire a car to carry your old sweetheart and yourself to your destination. The car breaks down miles from anywhere and you are both forced to take shelter in an old inn where the only accommodation is just one bedroom. As it is pouring with rain you are bound to register as husband and wife to obtain shelter for the lady. Meanwhile your wife has discovered where you are and your wife's father and mother are hot-foot on your trail. Of course you love your wife and don't want to adventure with the other lady with whom Fate has temporarily linked you, so you view the arrival of pa and ma-in-law with trepidation.

If you can imagine all this you will begin to realise what a deuce of a mess Peter Wyckham was in when all these things happened to him; and wonder how he ever got out of them satisfactorily.

Which brings us to "A Cuckoo in the Nest," showing at the King's Theatre to-day, where Ralph Lynn in the role of Peter Wyckham contrives to worry through all this maze of mishaps and emerges triumphant, and happily reunited to his wife.

"A Cuckoo in the Nest" is the famous stage farce which ran for months at the Aldwych Theatre. Tom Walls and Yvonne Arnaud are featured players with Ralph Lynn, Walls as the father-in-law, and Yvonne Arnaud as the girl in the case.

Mary Brough too has the role of Mrs. Spoker, a thoroughly unpleasant innkeeper, who with Robertson Hare as a parson with a penchant for motor cycling, aids and abets in the action of the story.

"A Cuckoo in the Nest," is a riot of happy laughter from the moment we discover Ralph Lynn at the bookstall, to the time where on the flapper bracket of the reverend gentleman's bike he rapidly overtakes the car in which his conduct is returning to London, and effects a happy reconciliation.

Take our advice, give imagination a rest, and go and see the film for yourself, you'll enjoy it.

THE DUDE RANGER

Coming On Sunday
To The Alhambra

A picture which, according to all advance reports, tops any Western drama George O'Brien has yet filmed, is scheduled to open at the Alhambra Theatre on Sunday. This is "The Dude Ranger," described as a thrilling saga of the Arizona cattle lands. The fact that Zane Grey is the author of the new film in itself promises far more than the usual for local audiences in the way of excitement, romance and authenticity of background.

This time, Grey tells the story of Ernest Selby, sophisticated, sturdy young Westerner, who comes to Arizona to claim a ranch inherited from his Uncle. Before he has an opportunity to make his identity known to the ranch manager, his suspicions are aroused by the disappearance of several hundred head of cattle.

Mistaken for a cowboy in search of a job, he decides to masquerade in this role until he has cleared up the mishandling of the ranch. In the meanwhile, he has discovered another reason to extend his stay, in the person of the ranch manager's daughter.

This impetuous charmer is played by Irene Hervey, fascinating young newcomer to films. Before the picture has reached its whirlwind conclusion, these two found romance together and have passed through several breath-taking adventures.

Other important members of the cast are Henry Hall, Leroy Mason,

"VOLTAIRE"

Current Attraction
At The Alhambra

It is not easy to find the superlatives needed to properly review "Voltaire" the new George Arliss picture, produced by Warner Bros. which is showing to-day and tomorrow at the Alhambra.

It is undoubtedly the greatest contribution to the screen Mr. Arliss has ever made, not excepting "Disraeli," which it most resembles, or "The Millionaire" or "The Working Man." Here is the most skillful performance this greatest of living actors has yet contributed to either stage or screen. Here is the finest cast ever assembled for an Arliss production. Here, in short, is an amazing drama, spectacularly produced, magnificently staged and dramatically sound.

It is said that Mr. Arliss has waited for twenty years to find the suitable dramatization of the Life of Voltaire; called the father of the French Revolution. If so it has been time well spent for the intervening years have ripened his talent and pointed his artistry toward the memorable day when he put "Voltaire" on film.

A single incident in the long and singularly exciting career of the great French poet-philosopher is used as a dramatic background for this remarkable film. In this Mr. Arliss has followed the method he found so successful in his immortal "Disraeli." About that one incident has been drawn all the drama of the times, all the gorgeous panoply and extravagance of the court of Louis XV, all the exciting intrigue which centered in the boudoir of Madame Pompadour. It is thrilling, reckless, beautifully mannered melodrama the like of which has not come out of Hollywood before.

The incident used by the dramatists and so colourfully portrayed by Arliss, is an adaptation of the famous Calas case in which Voltaire interested himself for eight long years, braving threats of imprisonment and death in his efforts to clear a man's name and to save his estates from intriguing advisors to the king. Voltaire's well-known friendship and influence with Madame Pompadour, a role played charmingly by the ever more beautiful Doris Kenyon, plays a vital part in the story. Of such stuff is great entertainment made!

The story moves swiftly from Voltaire's Paris apartments to the palace of the French king, into the boudoir of Mme. Pompadour and then to the unrivaled extravagance of Versailles. All of these settings have been reproduced with a lavish and spectacular hand. It is not just costume drama—it is the panorama of the world's most dramatic history unfolded realistically.

"Voltaire" is based on a novel by George Gibbs and E. Lawrence Dudley and the screen play is credited to Paul Green noted playwright and Pulitzer prize winner and Maude Howell. Due credit deservedly goes to them all. This is the high mark in the career of George Arliss. It is the high mark in screen entertainment, too.

ONE IS GUILTY

The Next Change
At The Queen's

Who killed Kid Roberts?

That question confronts motion picture audiences in the opening sequence of the Columbia mystery production, "One Is Guilty" the next change at the Queen's Theatre.

The body of the champion prize-fighter is found in an empty apartment house just before the scheduled appearance in the ring. He has been shot through the heart—and the one apparent clue is a cigarette stub daubed with lip-stick.

Ralph Bellamy, cast as the brilliant special investigator, "Trent," solves the murder, but not before another man, the fighter's manager, has also met with sudden death. The other actors in this gripping drama of death behind closed doors are Shirley Grey, Willard Robertson, Rita La Roy and Vincent Sherman.

Lambert Hillyer, ace Columbia director, wielded the megaphone on the Harold Shumate story.

Sid Saylor, Alvin Chester and Lloyd Ingraham.

Edward F. Cline directed "The Dude Ranger," which was produced by Sol Lesser and John Zant; for Fox release.

FASCINATING
WOMEN

Chevalier Chooses
World's 10 Best

At last a man has had the courage to draw up a list of the ten most fascinating women in the world.

This brave man is Maurice Chevalier, the French film star—whom thousands of women all over the world think is rather fascinating himself.

Here is the list from Hollywood: Comtesse de Maigret, of Paris; Clara Bow, the New York writer and magazine editor; Kay Francis; Marlene Dietrich; Merle Oberon; Greta Garbo; Anna Sten; Clara Bow; Loretta Young; and Anabella, the young French film actress.

Maurice was asked, in an interview, to select the world's ten most beautiful women, but he said he would prefer to choose the ten most fascinating—and he did so.

The Comtesse de Maigret, he said, was the most fascinating of all the women he has met. Tall and slender, radiant in both mind and body, she would, if brought to the screen, be the most glamorous of all the stars.

Beauty—Glamour—Poise

Miss Clara Bow was the most fascinating woman he has met in America. "Brilliant as well as beautiful, and, although serious-minded, she has wit and all the social charms," he explained.

Kay Francis, Marlene Dietrich, Merle Oberon, Greta Garbo, and

THIS MAN IS MINE

Now Showing At
The Star

Never throw your husband in another woman's arms to find out if he is true to you. If you do, he may remain where he lights.

Irene Dunne, star of the RKO-Radio comedy-drama, "This Man Is Mine," does that to Ralph Bellamy, her screen husband, and finds herself in a most untenable situation as the result.

Bellamy becomes thoroughly enamoured by the girl who catches him, forcing Miss Dunne to fight like a modern amazon to regain her lost mate. All this during a truce by which they remain six months together to test her power to hold him.

Delightfully humorous satire and intensely gripping dramatic situations mark her efforts, which finally gain success.

"This Man Is Mine," which is showing at the Star Theatre now, was adapted from the Broadway stage success, "Love Files in the Window," and was directed by John Cromwell. It is presented by a brilliant cast, including Constance Cummings, as the strenuous, Sissy Blackmer, May Johnson, Charles Starrett, Vivian Tobin and Louis Mason.

Anna Sten he grouped together as being equally fascinating.

"Clara Bow," he said, "is a memory I shall never forget. Her insouciance towards life was wonderful."

"Of all the younger generation I have met," Chevalier added, "Loretta Young is the most fascinating. She is not only gifted in beauty but in talent, and just now is developing and maturing."

"The lady I call Anabella has beauty, glamour, poise and magnetism. She should be better known than she is."

WARM WELCOME
AWAITS COLMAN

"Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back"

Although "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" is Ronald Colman's first starring vehicle for 20th Century Pictures, the return of the popular star to work after almost a year's vacation was somewhat like a reunion.

For both the Joseph M. Schenck-Darryl F. Zanuck organization and Samuel Goldwyn, for whom he previously starred, produce at the United Artists Studios.

Whether he looked upward to the electricians perched around the set overhead or to the technical crew flanked around the camera lines, Colman saw the familiar faces of "old friends"—co-workers of long standing.

For many years Colman has had the same men on the working crews of his pictures, and they have come to regard themselves as part of his permanent company. The quiet, courteous star has a warm place in the hearts of these workmen, and they, more than any others, were disquieted by the rumours while Colman was in Europe that their favourite might withdraw from the screen. There was considerable hand-shaking, therefore, when Colman appeared on the set for the first day's work on "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" which comes to the King's Theatre on Sunday.

ONE NIGHT OF LOVE

Excellent Musicale
At The Queen's

"One Night of Love" now showing to crowded houses at the Queen's Theatre is indeed a wonderful film which should be seen by every cinema-goer. All the charm of European scene and people, all the glamour of life abroad and all the glorious beauty of the finest Italian, French, and Spanish music are in this exceptional romantic picture which tells of an unknown opera singer's struggle to fame.

The exquisite voice of Miss Grace Moore, who has the leading role, and her beauty and charming personality contribute largely to the success of this film, especially her songs from "Carmen" which literally transport one into a fairyland world of music, beauty and thrilling emotion.

The plot of the story is something of a Svengali-Trilby idea. Miss Moore is seen as Mary, a beautiful would-be opera singer who is overheard performing in a cafe by a famous impresario and teacher. She becomes his pupil and in a short time makes her debut in Vienna and is acclaimed a great success. She then strikes out on her own and accepts an engagement to play at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. In the meantime she has promised to marry a young American. However, at the moment of her first entrance in "Madame Butterfly" she loses her nerve and cannot sing but suddenly recognises in the large audience her former teacher who guides her through the performance and gathers her in his arms at the end.

Trilby Carlini, the Italian opera singer, has the romantic love affair with Miss Moore, and with the help of an excellent supporting cast which includes Lyle Talbot, Mona Barrie, Jessie Ralph and Andres de Segovia; they make the picture a thoroughly enjoyable one.

THE CHOPIN RECITAL Mr. Bowes-Smith's Excellent Performance

There was a splendid audience at the Helena May Institute last Wednesday evening to hear the Chopin Recital given by Mr. Bowes-Smith. Sir Thomas and Lady Southern were among those present and a full-house was registered. The proceeds of the concert went to the Benevolent Society, (a charity which makes a wide appeal). Mr. Bowes-Smith is the Colony's most popular amateur pianist, and appears at too seldom on our local platforms, and the public welcomed the chance of giving him an enthusiastic reception. He is a sincere artist, and puts his whole soul into his playing; moreover, he approaches each piece from a different angle, and this is probably why his interpretations are so interesting.

The programme commenced with the Fantasia in F. Minor, given in a poetic and reflective mood. Next came the Barcarole, with its lazy rhythm and dreamy melodies, in which the pianist conveyed to his audience a definite impression of the rhythmic beat of oars as the gondolier propels his boat across moonlit waters.

The grandest item on the programme was, of course, the Sonata in B. Minor, a real "tour-de-force" in which Mr. Bowes-Smith rose to great heights. From the moment that he broke into the brilliant and forceful phrases of the opening bars, his audience realised that they were to hear a masterpiece performance! The delicacy of the second movement came as a complete contrast. The third movement was given with gravity and deep expression. While the final movement was played with inspiring power and vigour and a display of brilliant technique which brought the work to a thrilling conclusion, and earned the pianist a well-deserved ovation.

The programme concluded with five light pieces. The Preludes in C. major and Nocturn in D. Flat. The haunting and beautiful Etude in A. Flat. (descriptive of a little shepherd-boy, who shelters from a storm, and plays his flute to the accompaniment of pattering rain-drops), and the ever-lovely and familiar Scherzo in B. Flat Minor. In this last piece the pianist employed great delicacy and beauty of phrasing combined with fiery brilliance, and gave a most spirited performance that evoked such prolonged applause that he was compelled to concede an encore. As a feat of memory alone this concert must go down as a notable performance and one worthy to be remembered.

YORKSHIREMEN MEET

Year's Working
Reviewed

The Society of Yorkshiremen in Hong Kong held its annual meeting yesterday at premises in the Chartered Bank Building, with Mr. A. Brearley presiding.

Commenting on the accounts, Mr. W. Stoker, Hon. Treasurer, said that the financial position of the Society was sound, but that subscriptions had gone down slightly, due to members having left the Colony.

The Committee reported that at 31st October 1934, the Society had 29 Life Members (including eight ladies), and 73 Annual Members (including 22 ladies), making a total membership of 102.

The Society recorded with much regret the loss of three valued members who died during the year—Mrs. A. Brearley, Mr. S. Brown and Mrs. R. M. Dyer.

The annual dinner held last year was a big success, and the function was graced by the presence of Sir William Peel, K.C. M.G., K.B.E., and Lady Peel.

The annual Bowls and Tennis matches against the Kowloon Bowling Green Club took place on February 12th, and although the Society lost by quite a big margin in the games, a very enjoyable day was spent.

Following the adoption of the report and accounts, many members participated in the discussion regarding the holding of the next annual dinner. The date, 8th March, was provisionally fixed, and the dinner is to be catered for by the Hong Kong Hotel, at $6 per head, exclusive of liquors. Messrs. A. Brearley, Mundy and W. Stoker were elected to serve on the sub-committee responsible for organising some cabaret items during the evening.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
President—Mr. A. Brearley
Vice-Pres.—Mr. H.H. Priestley
Hon. Secretary—Mr. J. G. Meyer
Hon. Treasurer—Mr. W. Stoker
Committee—Messrs. A. R. Brown, L. E. Longbottom and J. B. Danby
Auditor—Mr. J. E. Shaw

BRITAIN'S OVERSEAS TRADE

London, Feb. 13.

Imports in January totalled £21,931,000, against £22,225,000 in December, and £24,571,000 in January 1934.
Exports last month were valued at £23,481,000, against £24,300,000 in December, and £21,600,000 in January 1934.
Re-exports were valued at £2,100,000, against £2,000,000 in December, and £1,800,000 in January 1934.

OBITUARY

Sudden Death Of
Mr. G. T. May

Local football circles have lost one of the game's staunchest supporters by the death which occurred yesterday of Mr. G. T. May, Secretary of the Hong Kong Football Association.

Mr. May was hale and hearty until quite recently and the news must come as a shock to those who knew him. He collapsed in his office from heart failure yesterday afternoon. He attended last week the Interport Football Dinner given in honour of the visitors from Shanghai and attended the football match between Shanghai and the United Services the following day.

Mr. May, whose association with the Colony goes back for many years, was certainly one of the most prominent figures in sports circles. More than twenty years ago, the name of Master Gunner May was well known in cricket and football circles. Mr. May excelled in both and winning many trophies in the course of a very successful sports career. He was both a good bowler and batsman.

He had seen football grow in the Colony and when an injury prevented him from active play for a while he took an interest in the control of football in Hong Kong and devoted himself wholeheartedly to the task. He had served in many capacities in the Hong Kong Football Council, and the post which he filled this season was the arduous one of Secretary to the Association. As a tribute to the memory of Mr. May, the Council of the Football Association, when it met last night, stood in silence for a minute in memory of the passing of one who might be described as "the grand old man" of local football. He knew the rules off by heart and he never missed an important match, rain or fine, so great was his interest in the game.

In addition to football, Mr. May also took an interest in aquatic sports and at one time was Honorary Steward of the Victoria Recreation Club, doing much to help the progress of the members of the Club. He was one of the finest water polo referees in the Colony.

Of a retiring disposition, Mr. May earned for himself a host of friends, whose sympathy will be extended to his widow, and son, Mr. G. T. May of the A.P.C. and daughter, Mrs. Russell, whom Mr. May leaves behind to mourn his loss.

The funeral takes place this afternoon, the cortege passing the Monument at 5 p.m.

The report of the Directors of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation for the year ended December 31, 1934, states that the net profits for the year, together with $3,482,728.10, balance brought forward from last account, after paying all charges, deducting interest paid and due, and making provision for bad and doubtful accounts and contingencies, amount to $16,467,425.48.

The Directors recommend writing off Bank Premises Account the sum of $1,000,000.

After making this transfer, deducting the interim dividend of $3 per share, paid on 13th August last, viz.—$480,000 @ 1/5¢ = $6,400,140.85, and remuneration to Directors, there remains for appropriation $8,914,213.50, out of which the Directors recommend the payment of a final dividend of $3 per share, viz., $480,000 which, at 1/8¢, the rate of the day, will absorb $5,819,512.20.

The balance $3,294,701.30 to be carried to New Profit and Loss Account.

The sterling equivalents of the assets and liabilities are shown at 1/8¢, the rate ruling on the last day of the year.

Directors.—Mr. S. H. Dodwell has been elected Chairman for the year 1935, and Mr. C. C. Knight has been elected Deputy Chairman. The Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie, Mr. G. Miskin and Mr. A. H. Compton retire in rotation, but being eligible for re-election, offer themselves accordingly.

Messrs. T. H. R. Shaw, J. J. Paterson and J. P. Warren, having left the Colony, have resigned their seats and Messrs. C. C. Knight, W. J. Keswick and S. H. Dodwell have been elected to fill the vacancies.

Auditors.—The accounts have been audited by Mr. John Fleming, C.A. and Mr. H. R. Forsyth, C.A., who offer themselves for re-election.

ST. ANDREW'S CONCERT

Good Entertainment
Provided

The concert given last night in St. Andrew's Church Hall in aid of St. Andrew's Benevolent Fund was an unqualified success, and the attendance was very good indeed. The contributors, Capt. O. P. Jock, Mrs. Anderson Miller, Mrs. A. W. Lorena and Mrs. E. Schroeder were all well applauded, and, together, it was felt that time passed all too swiftly. It would be invidious to mention any one of the four contributors being better than the other, by mention, it is felt, has to be made of Mrs. Schroeder's violin solos. The programme was as follows:—

(a) When Dull Care arr. (Lane Wilson)
(b) Ah Willow? arr. (Lane Wilson)
(c) Some Rival has Stolen my True Love Away arr. (Lucy Broadwood)
(Traditional Surrey Song)
Captain O. P. Jock
Sonata in G Minor for Violin and Piano (Tartini)
Mrs. E. Schroeder and Mrs. J. A. Riach

Pianoforte Solos:—
(a) Why (Schumann)
(b) Whims (Schumann)
Mr. A. W. Lorena

Songs:—
One Fine Day (Puccini)
(Madame Butterfly)
Mrs. Anderson Miller

INTERVAL
Pianoforte Solos:—
(a) Mazurka (Benjamin Godard)
(b) Danse Creole (Chaminade)
Mr. A. W. Lorena

Songs:—
(a) Rest at Midday (Janet Hamilton)
(b) Spring (George Henschel)
Mrs. Anderson Miller

Violin Solos:—
(a) Siciliano (J. S. Bach)
(b) Menuet (Joseph Hayden)
Mrs. E. Schroeder

Songs:—
(a) Sea Fever (John Ireland)
(b) Bright is the Ring of Words (Vaughan Williams)
Mrs. Anderson Miller

Songs of Travel (H. L. Stevenson)
(c) The Rose (Armasing Gibbes)
(Walter de la Mare)

ORATORIO AT CATHEDRAL

Hong Kong Singers
To Sing Elijah

The announcement that Hong Kong is to hear an oratorio in its own Cathedral very shortly has been received with the greatest pleasure. Thanks to the kind permission granted by the Very Rev. Dean Swann, and the Cathedral Council, it can now be definitely stated that Mendelssohn's "Elijah" will be sung in the Cathedral by the "Hong Kong Singers" on Thursday, March 28th at 9 p.m.

This oratorio has been described as the most dramatic ever written. One has only to call to mind its many tremendous climaxes to realise this. The first produced after successive choruses have portrayed the impotence of Baal and the false gods by the mighty answer to the Prophets prayer for fire to consume the sacrifice. Another is reached when, after the long drought occasioned by the people's idolatry the rain descends on the thirsty land. Then comes the revelation in Mount Horeb where, after the tempest, earthquake and fire "in a still small voice onward came the Lord." These scenes and the Prophets subsequent translation to Heaven in a fiery chariot are described in a manner known only to genius itself.

Choir Augmented
With the exception of one contralto and a Baritone who is temporarily absent in New Zealand, the Hong Kong Singers have as nucleus exactly the same choir as sang so successfully at the first Helena May Concert on October 25th last. To perform this work adequately however they have been considerably augmented but discrimination in admissions has resulted in their losing nothing either in brilliance or efficiency. In addition the talented services of Miss Valerie Morris, L.R.A.M. as accompanist have been of great benefit to the choir.

The solos, trios, quartettes and double quartette will all be sung by members of the choir as follows:—Mrs. D. Snowden, Jones, Mrs. J. Anderson Miller, Mrs. F. T. Portallion, Mrs. W. Sinclair, Mr. J. A. Kennedy, Mr. H. G. Annis, Rev. Cyril Brown, B.A., Captain O. P. Jock, Mr. L. Peckham etc.

The part of the prophet, often described as unique in music, will be sung by the Rev. H. W. Eames and his artistic interpretation will be a source of great pleasure especially to those who love oratorio music.

Mr. Mason At The Organ.
Mr. Frederick Mason, A.R.C.O., will preside at the organ. This will perhaps be his last public appearance before his regrettable departure from the Colony and his many friends will no doubt be delighted to hear his sympathetic accompaniment throughout. With him Mr. J. Anderson Miller, L.R.A.M., will co-operate as conductor. Mr. Miller has specialised in voice culture and his skill with a chorus has already been exemplified at other concerts. He will now have at his command singers of the best quality and it is confidently expected that a standard will be set in choral technique. Having conducted this work many times before he can be relied on not only to emphasise the dramatic side but to appreciate the beautiful part writing with its infinite opportunities for artistic interpretation.

LECTURE ON VERDI

Italian Association
Series

A most interesting lecture on "Verdi" was given by the Rev. C.B.R. Sargent last evening at the Jacobean Room of the Hong Kong Hotel. The lecturer managed to hold his audience at a high state of interest as he told them phase after phase of Verdi's colourful and lengthy life which was productive of so many operatic triumphs.

Verdi's greatness, said the speaker, was not fully appreciated in England. The real reason for that was that good singing was very rare and in fact so much was this the case that the standard of singing was very low indeed, and in the hands of such singers, naturally Verdi's work suffered.

The speaker went on to give a brief sketch of Verdi's life and some comments on his better known works.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. G. P. de Martin at the close of the address.

Sig. A. Bianconi, Consul for Italy was in the Chair, and amongst the gathering were noticed Sir Robert Ho Tung, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fraser, Mr. E. Soprani, Miss G. M. Cotton, the Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso, Mr. M. R. Polnost, Miss H. D. Sawyer, Rev. M. Ryan, Mr. M. Cunietti, Mr. A. Piovaneli, Mr. and Mrs. A. Vainini, Mr. U. Gonella, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. H. Wan.

The programme of the lectures and concerts to be held by the Association of Italian Culture for the next months will be as follows:—

February 28th—Concert of ancient Italian music conducted by Professor E. Gualdi.

March 12th—Lecture by Comm. A. Bianconi, Consul General for Italy on "Matteo Ricci his life and work in China."

March 25th—Lecture by the Rev. Fr. F. Ryan on "Raphael."

April 24th—Lecture and Concert on "The Development of Italian religious music from Palestine to Perosi" by Rev. Fr. A. Riganiti, of St. Joseph Church.

The lectures will be held in the Jacobean room of the Hong Kong Hotel. The Concert by Professor E. Gualdi will take place in the Peninsula Hotel, and the Concert by Rev. Fr. A. Riganiti, will be held in St. Joseph Church, Garden Road.

PRODUCE EXCHANGES IN HONG KONG

Replies To Questions By Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga

At the Legislative Council meeting yesterday the Hon. Mr. Edwin Taylor (Colonial Treasurer) replied to the questions regarding produce exchanges in Hong Kong which were put by the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga. Mr. Taylor stated that he was aware that there were brokers in Hong Kong who transmitted orders for dealings in Commodities on Foreign Exchanges. In reply to another question he stated that he was not in a position to state whether actual delivery of the commodities contracted for had been made in Hong Kong or elsewhere.

H.E. The Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E., presided and there were present:—

The Officer Commanding the Troops (Brigadier H. G. Seth Smith, O.B.E., D.S.O.).

The Hon. The Colonial Secretary (Sir Thomas Southorn, K.B.E., C.M.G.).

The Hon. the Attorney General (Mr. C. G. Alabaster).

The Hon. the S.C.A. (Mr. N. L. Smith).

The Hon. the Colonial Treasurer (Mr. Edwin Taylor).

The Hon. Dr. W. B. A. Moore (Director of Medical and Sanitary Services).

The Hon. Comdr. G. F. Hole, R.N. (Retired).

The Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (Director of Public Works).

The Hon. Mr. T. H. King (Inspector General of Police).

The Hon. Sir Henry Pollock.

The Hon. Sir William Shenton.

The Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie.

The Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., LL.D.

The Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga.

The Hon. Dr. T'so Seen Wan, O.B.E., LL.D.

The Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson.

The Hon. Mr. Chau Tsun Nin.

and Mr. R. A. C. North (Clerk of Councils).

Produce Exchanges

The Hon. Mr. Braga having given notice of his questions, asked:—

1.—Will the Honourable the Colonial Treasurer state whether it is not a fact that some years ago an abortive attempt was made to establish a Produce Exchange in Hong Kong; and, if so, whether it is not also a fact that the projected Exchange was compelled to close through threatened legislation by the Government?

2.—Will he state the reasons that led the Government to withhold its licence for the operation of the said Exchange?

3.—Is the Colonial Treasurer aware that there exist in Hong Kong agencies in the nature of "proprietary exchanges" that conduct business by the transmission of local orders for dealings in foreign exchanges in commodities such as wheat, cotton, rubber, tin, etc.?

4.—Is it within the knowledge of the Colonial Treasurer that the deals in the said commodities rarely, if ever, materialise beyond the act of receiving, or paying for, differences when they become due arising out of the transactions for sale and/or purchase resulting in a profit or loss, as the case may be, and that it has not been known that the delivery of the commodities, or any portion thereof, contracted for has been made in point of fact?

5.—Is it not anomalous that the project for establishing at least one local Produce Exchange was suppressed at its inception while sanction has not been withheld from non-domiciled firms doing business in the Colony in a variety of commodities?

6.—Will the Honourable Member inform the Council:—

(a) Whether the contracts referred to in Question 4 are stamped and, if so, what is the taxing rule applicable to such contracts?

(b) Is the stamp duty regulated by any sliding scale determined by the "ad valorem" value of each deal; for example, on the basis that sharebrokers' contracts are taxed at the rate of 20 cents per $100 of the value thereof, or is the "ad valorem" amount of the commodity contracts altogether ignored?

The Hon. Mr. Edwin Taylor:—

If the Honourable Member refers to the movement which led to the incorporation in 1921 of the South China Stock and Produce Exchange Co., Ltd., the General Exchange Co., Ltd., and the Hong Kong Chinese Merchants' Stock and Produce Exchange Co., Ltd., the answer to the first part of the question is in the affirmative.

The draft of an Ordinance to regulate exchanges was published in the Government Gazette of the 14th January, 1922, but the proposed legislation was not proceeded with. The Companies in question were dissolved voluntarily in 1922, 1928 and 1932 respectively. It is probable that the expressed opposition of the Government served to check the movement to establish exchanges of this nature, but no compulsion was in fact imposed upon existing companies.

2.—As stated in the reply to question 1 the proposed legislation was not enacted, and the Government was therefore not in a position to grant or withhold licences.

3.—I am aware that there are brokers in Hong Kong who transmit orders for dealings in Commodities on Foreign Exchanges, but I am not aware of the existence of agencies in the nature of "proprietary exchanges."

4.—The sale and purchase contract forms used by these brokers contemplate delivery. I am not in a position to state whether actual delivery of the commodities contracted for has been made in Hong Kong or elsewhere.

5.—There is no anomaly as the firms to which the Honourable Member refers have not attempted to establish a Produce Exchange in Hong Kong. The Honourable Member is not correct, however, in assuming that sanction has been given to these firms to deal in commodities. No sanction has been given because none is required under local ordinances.

6.—(a) Contracts and agreements covering the purchase and sale of commodities are not subject to stamp duty. The answer to this question is, therefore, in the negative.

(b) In view of the reply given to question 6 (a) this question does not arise.

Bills Passed.

The following bills passed their first readings:—

"A Bill to amend the Tobacco Ordinance, 1931."

"A Bill to amend the Tung Wah Hospital Ordinance, 1930."

The following bills passed their second readings and will now be placed before the Standing Law Committee of the Council:—

"A Bill to make provision for the substitution of an Urban Council for the Sanitary Board, and to repeal the Public Health and Building Ordinances."

"A Bill to amend the law relating to town cleansing, nuisances, domestic sanitation, the licensing of certain premises and trades and the disposal of the dead."

"A Bill to make better provision for the maintenance of Public Health in relation to Food and Hawkers."

"A Bill to make better provision for the Sale of Food and Drugs in an unadulterated state."

"A Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to Quarantine and the Prevention of Disease among human beings."

"A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Quarantine and the Prevention of Disease among animals and birds."

"A Bill to amend the Boarding-house Ordinance, 1917."

Finance Committee

All the items mentioned in the supplementary estimates were approved. With regard to a sum of $400, required in respect of Field Training Expenses for the Voluntary Aid Detachment of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, the Hon. Sir William Shenton asked for the reason for this new organisation as he understood that work of this nature was either done by St. John Ambulance Brigade or by the Red Cross and that there was a mutual understanding in the Crown Colonies that where one was established the other was not to overlap.

The Chairman (Sir Thomas Southorn): The Nursing Detachment started from the suggestion of the Volunteer Commandant supported by the G.O.C. This was to be run in co-operation with the St. John Ambulance Brigade. The matter was referred to the War Office and they stated that "as the scheme is now framed, it is capable of administration only at home and therefore it could not be approved in the form in which it was asked for." Further communication on the subject was

CUSTOMS HULK LAUNCHED

Ceremony At Whampoa Dock

The Steel Pontoon Hulk "Tung Hui" which has been built for the Chinese Maritime Customs by the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Co., Ltd., was successfully launched yesterday in the presence of a large gathering. The ceremony was performed by Madame Cloarec in the customary manner by breaking a bottle of champagne at the bow of the vessel amidst the firing of a long string of crackers.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at which the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Co., Ltd., proposed the toast of the Chinese Maritime Customs and Mr. and Mrs. Cloarec.

In doing so, he said that the last time he made a speech he took over half an hour and he assured the guests that his present speech would take only half a minute. It was very nice that everybody connected with the Dock and the Customs had come to witness the launching which, unfortunately, he said, was rather rare. It was very nice also of the Chinese Maritime Customs to have placed the order. The Dock Company had done a great deal of work for them in the past and it was obvious that their confidence had been retained. He felt quite sure that everything would be done to maintain the confidence of the Chinese Maritime Customs and he hoped that the Dock Company would get many more orders from them.

Mr. Bell then proposed the toast of the Chinese Maritime Customs and Mr. and Mrs. Cloarec to whom he expressed the wish that they would enjoy good health, happiness and prosperity.

The opportunity was also taken to present Madame Cloarec with a souvenir of the occasion in the form of a diamond brooch which Mr. Bell trusted, she would wear for many years as a reminder of the ceremony.

The vessel

The vessel is to be moored at Lappa and will be complete in every respect for the inspection of goods by the Customs Officials and also for the accommodation of relief crews and refuelling of the Customs cruisers in that area.

Dimensions are 200 ft. x 33 ft. x 9 ft. 9 ins. to lower deck with two superstructure decks over. On the top deck accommodation is provided for the Senior Executive Officer together with separate Saloons and Staterooms for European and Chinese Officers.

The General Office, Sample Room, Strong Room and accommodation for the office staff are situated on the lower deck while below the Main deck there is accommodation for Guards and Relief Crews.

Hold space and a large tween deck 9 ft. high is arranged for the examination and stowage of goods which are handled by means of a cargo traveller extending across the ship with a Morris Electric Pulley Block for two ten lifts.

Double Bottom below the hold space will carry the Oil Fuel and Fresh Water for the Customs cruisers. Two Steel pole masts are fitted for Wireless Aerial and Signalling.

Gardner Oil Engine Electric Generators, one 31.2 Type 181 K.W. and one 21.2 Type 10 K.W. will supply the power for lighting, Fans, Wireless, Searchlight, Bells, Fire and Bilge Pumps.

The two gibs on the top deck are 30 ft. long, one of these being fitted with a propelling diesel engine of Gardner 21.2 type.

Protective plating is fitted around four lookout platforms, searchlight house and in way of engine of motor gis.

Meanwhile, as the Volunteer Force did not wish to suspend the formation of the Voluntary Aid Detachment, it was decided to institute it as a separate body working with the Volunteers and the final form which it is to take has not been definitely decided.

Sir William Shenton: Is there any reason why existing organisation in the Colony should not be used.

The Chairman: I am afraid I cannot explain exactly why the St. John Ambulance Brigade in its present form did not suit the purpose. Of course this new body is definitely with the Volunteers.

Sir William Shenton: So you are

HONG KONG AND LEPROSY

Recommendations By Local Committee

That the Government should approach some suitable missionary or philanthropic body with a view to the establishment of a leper asylum in the Colony is the recommendation made in the report just issued by the Committee appointed by H. E. The Governor to inquire into the incidence of leprosy in the Colony and to suggest methods for dealing with lepers found in the Colony.

The report states:—

We were fortunate in being able to profit at one of our meetings by the presence of Professor Dr. Bernhard Nocht, late Director of the Hamburg Institute of Tropical Diseases and President of the 1930 International Commission on Leprosy, and of Dr. J. L. Maxwell of the Lester Institute Shanghai Medical Secretary (for China) to the Mission to Lepers, who happened to be in the Colony at the time.

As regards the local incidence of the disease we are conscious that any estimate must be almost purely conjectural, but from an examination of the figures available from neighbouring countries and of the Gaol statistics we conclude that there are probably at present somewhere between 800 and 1000 lepers in the Colony.

Leprosy is not one of the "epidemic, endemic, contagious or infectious" diseases dealt with under the Public Health and Building Ordinance No. 1 of 1903.

On the other hand the Lepers Ordinance No. 24 of 1910 indicates the belief held at the time of its introduction that leprosy is a dreaded infectious disease, the victims of which should be removed from all intercourse with the rest of the inhabitants. The Attorney General of that day in introducing the Bill said: "The object of this Bill is to check the spread of leprosy in the Colony by providing for the segregation and treatment of lepers."

We are advised that leprosy is not a hereditary disease; that it is probably communicable especially at an early stage by long and close association; that it is not commonly communicable from husband to wife or vice versa; that workers in leper settlements may safely mix with lepers without any special precautions; and that deliberate experiments to infect clean persons by injection of bacilli have not succeeded.

Modern methods of treatment may cure the disease if taken at an early stage and may mitigate its violence at all stages. Segregation is not an essential condition at either stage.

With the above in view it might seem attractive simply to recommend the complete repeal of Ordinance No. 24 of 1910 and to allow leprosy to take its chance like tuberculosis, the infectivity of which is much greater.

But the revolving nature of the disease in its advanced stages and the horror with which it is commonly regarded seem to us to call for some special legislation alike for the protection of the public from distressing spectacles and still more for the amelioration of the leper's own unhappy lot.

Under the existing law every person is either a leper or not a leper. If he or she is a leper then the full vigour of the Ordinance theoretically makes itself felt. No treatment by a private practitioner or as an out-patient at a hospital is permissible however slight the symptoms. The Police must be at once notified and the unhappy victim expelled from the Colony or segregated.

No asylum, as contemplated in the Ordinance, has yet been established, probably owing to the fear that such would attract from South China a large number of lepers whom the Colony should have no proper claim to support.

We consider that a leper asylum should be established in the New Territories, but that this should be under the control of some missionary or philanthropic body with a subsidy from the Government based on the number of genuinely local cases admitted. We therefore recommend the deletion of that part of section 2 of the Ordinance which prohibits the establishment of a leper asylum by a private person.

We consider that segregation in such an asylum should no longer be compulsory in cases where ordinary medical treatment is considered sufficient. If so, we are of the opinion, from the experience of other countries, that accommodation for at most 100 local lepers would be found to be adequate at least as a start. Although lepers in an advanced stage of the disease would probably greatly prefer life in an asylum to the wretched existence which is the only alternative elsewhere, we consider that their removal to such an asylum, at the discretion of the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services, and their retention there, should continue to be legally enforceable. In this we are equally influenced, as indicated above, by the rights of the public to be spared the distressing sight of lepers in the streets.

We consider that the references to the Governor or to the Governor in Council called for under the present law are unnecessarily cumbersome and that more discretion should be given to the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.

As the treatment of leprosy in its early stages is reported to us to be most effective when applied in clinics we recommend that, so far from segregation being compulsory in such cases, private practitioners, hospitals and health centres should be encouraged to treat leprosy by recognized methods. We consider that the Medical Authorities should be notified confidentially of all cases of leprosy, but in our opinion this will not be opposed when it is known that segregation will not normally be enforced.

To prevent the influx of lepers from elsewhere into the Colony's asylum we consider that entry should still be prohibited and that the right to deport such cases should be preserved. But in our opinion any genuine resident of say three years standing should be admitted to such an asylum regardless of the question of British nationality.

We recommend that Ordinance No. 24 of 1910 should be either amended in accordance with the above recommendations or, if the alterations are considered too drastic, repealed and replaced by another Ordinance.

Our only other specific recommendation is that the Government should approach some suitable missionary or philanthropic body with a view to the establishment of a leper asylum on terms to be agreed upon.

The report is signed by the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, (Chairman), The Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, Mr. M. K. Lo, and Mr. Li Chuk.

CANCER FIGHT IN EAST PRUSSIA

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Koenigsberg, Feb. 13. Intense widespread interest was aroused here on Wednesday by the communication of the chief medical councillor, Dr. Juenst to members of the Women's Fatherland Club about the steps now being taken throughout East Prussia to fight cancer on a grand scale. The office for public health and the provincial committee for combatting cancer have together instituted and organised a system of medical examination for all women over 30 years of age, free of charge. Four clinics have already been equipped in Koenigsberg itself for this purpose.

No legal compulsion is being brought to bear but the authorities endorse Dr. Juenst's appeal to all women to submit to a thorough examination in her own and the nation's interests. The experience thus gained and the observations made in East Prussia will be used as a basis for further researches embracing the whole Reich.

SWISS COUNCILLOR'S RESIGNATION

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berne, Feb. 13. The Federal Councillor, Edmond Schulthess who has been a member of the Council for more than 20 years and who has been four times elected President of the Swiss Confederation, was said to have handed in his resignation on Wednesday, according to a report which says "yet is lacking official confirmation." Schulthess announced some months ago of his intention to retire from political life early in 1935.

TELEVISION AND THE THEATRE

Sir Oswald Stoll gave it as his opinion that television is now "practical, commercial, and inevitable." He is convinced that television with a high degree of definition has now reached the stage of positive value in entertainment, and he looks to a time in the immediate future when the distant scene or show will be made both audible and visible in the home by apparatus of reasonable price. He added that this development would "call for the rehabilitation of the entertainment of the stage." It is clear that if we are in large numbers to become lookers as well as listeners we must have something adequate at which to look. Not every day will yield a Royal Wedding or a Grand National Steeplechase, and the business of providing regular visual entertainment and instruction will be a considerable one. We may confidently expect the broadcasting stations in such circumstances to enter well armed the lists of theatrical production, and to present for transmission to eye as well as ear full-dress drama from a fully equipped stage. We may expect it also to range the theatres and music-halls of the land for material suitable to its programmes. We may even, if the example of its service to music be taken, expect it to give valuable financial aid to those companies whose work it considers most useful. Yet there will be plenty of critics who foresee in the coming of television not that fresh hope for the living theatre which Sir Oswald Stoll entertains but another fall in its coffin. With drama and variety "laid on" in the parlour will the citizen trouble in any numbers to present himself at the box office, and, if he does not, how is the theatre to live? One reply is to be found in the success of the Promenade Concerts since they were broadcast. And if the relay of a concert can bring out the public in thousands to see an orchestra and a conductor they have privately appreciated, how much more potent is likely to be the appeal of the actor or actress whose image has charmed or thrilled by the fireside?

If Gossip We Must

(BY "PRUDENCE")

I went to a most unusual American party on Wednesday, when Mrs. R. Sanger gave one of her wonderful "Sukiyaki" tiffins. She is a charming hostess and likes to do things on a big scale, so more than forty people sat down to tiffin. . . I say sat, but of course the table was spread on the floor, with gay cushions round. Four "hibachi's" glowed warmly alongside, and the long table was covered with dishes of all the good things that go into a real "Sukiyaki." Chopped meat and shredded white cabbage; spring onions and bean-sprouts; mushrooms and bamboo-shoots. . . fried in the chafing dish with lashings of soy, and fresh eggs cracked into it. . . It smells so delicious in the cooking that the very aroma makes one hungry. . . Each guest was provided with a pair of dainty chopsticks and a bowl of rice, and then the savoury mixture, poured on top.

Some real experts presided over the cooking. . . Mrs. R. M. Henderson (very trim in white and terra-cotta) shared the honours of one "hibachi" with Mrs. Girondal. A pretty girl in a bright gipsy scarf at another, Mrs. George Hill was busy at a third (looking just too sweet in brown corduroy velvet), while Mrs. Sanger herself, presided over the fourth, in a very dainty dress of brown spotted silk.

Who else were there? oh, numbers of people I know, and don't know. . . Mrs. Fred Tracy looked delightful in something dark, and Mrs. Marshall was very easy to look at in vivid cerise with a short leopard-skin coat. Mrs. Anthony was very chic in black and white polka-dots. Mrs. Hoover wore lovely ermine, with a black dress, Mrs. Emmert looked marvellous all in black, and had her pretty niece Helen Emmert with her, and I fell in love with her frock cut so severely, but decorated at the back by a long pointed cowl of pale blue crepe. Mrs. Simon shewed how smart black looks when allied to a demure collar of lace, and Mrs. Tyson too looked awfully nice in black, and Mrs. Arndt with a captivating "glengarry." I noticed Mary Taylor in a fascinating hat with a long narrow feather, and Beatrix Bicheno in brown with a suede coat to match. I glimpsed Mrs. Buyers in the distance and Mrs. C. Stark too; Mrs. George Grimbble brought her sister (who has come out to visit Hong Kong), and Dr. Helen Canaval managed to steal away from her patients for a little time and told me about the Gym-Class for small children which she holds in her house at Pokfulam, very good for them and great fun too. . . there were lots more fascinating frocks. . . but memory fails me. . . or else perhaps I was too much occupied with that delicious bowl of "Sukiyaki."

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

(BY "NO QUARTER")

I write this, festering in grime. Rats and large spiders are playing cowboys and Indians over my matted legs. My moss-grown rags bang around me in a profusion of elephantine decay.

THEY HAVE TURNED OFF THE WATER!

Ah, yes! I see you smiling there in the corner, old schoolmate! Laugh on! Say to yourself in rhyme, if you will:—

"Ruddy nosed No Quarter Never needs no water."

Then, think again. When I rise from my bed at 11.30 or so, (for I am a great believer in early rising), where is my bath? Not there: they have turned off the water. Back from a long day's work at lunch time: a gin old boy? Thanks, I will: hullo, what's this? No Water? The same old tale.

No, but honestly, its carrying the thing a bit too far. I mean we've all played with pretty straight bats so far, out here in the East. We haven't gone native, and we've kept the flag flying pretty high, though I say it as shouldn't.

And now, at one fell swoop or sweep, the whole Sahib tradition falls to the ground.

Disraeli once remarked, during the Thirty Years' War:—
"Keep the bath: taps running, and you'll keep the enemy running too."

I ask you fellow-Britishers to stand by me, true Knights of the Order of the Bath, with Aqua Pura as your watchword.

Brrrr! It makes me go h and c all over.

INTRICATE DIARY

(By "Verbena")

(With apologies to an esteemed compeer)

Feb. 12. How the days are drawing out! Spring seems to follow Winter, and Summer Spring in an almost unbroken cycle of seasons. It might be some vast cosmic meal in which four courses repeat themselves interminably.

My meaning was, perhaps, best expressed by Madame Mai Quest, the famous French Dairist when she wrote:—

"Venez au dessus et voyez moi quelque temps."

Feb. 13. Our garden has blossomed wonderfully with the spring sunshine, and pansies and Violets are decorating every bed. I find flowers such a comfort, especially when I have nothing much to write about. Like the seasons, they, too, seem to repeat themselves with such a fascinating regularity in my diary.

Pardon! Oh mille fois pardon. Madame!

A GUIDE TO DEBUTANTES

WHAT TO SAY AT THE RACES

I don't mind the look of that one—bit light in the spavin—big-head, yeah, big-head—he's got it! No he hasn't—So crooked he can't lie straight in bed—a monkey to a fiver—big-head, yeah, big-head—do you know anything?—sit down and ride him—long in the back, but deep through the heart—big-head, yeah, big-head.

WHAT NOT TO SAY AT THE RACES

Are those the horses?—What a pretty colour, I think I'll back him—Look what a funny long neck that horse has got with a sort of a bump on the end—I think the policeman's horse looks the fastest of the lot—shall we have tea now, or watch the races—Darling, I shall SCREAM if my horse doesn't win—Have they started yet—How ever do they manage to stick on?—Why is that brutal man whipping his horse? He was quite near the front.

"And doesn't know what manners mean."

FUTURE OF AIRSHIP TRAVEL UNAFFECTED BY MACON DISASTER

Views Of Dr. Eckener And Other Authorities

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891.
Received, February 14, 4.30 p.m.)

Berlin, Feb. 14.
In an interview published by the "Tageblatt," Dr. Eckener stated: "I absolutely decline to subscribe to the view that the naval dirigible was forced down to sea by storm and therefore do not believe that any argument against the possibility of airship traffic can be derived from the Macon disaster." Dr. Eckener paid a tribute to Commander Wiley as a very able and experienced airman.

Interest is also aroused here by the statement which Clark Howell, Chairman of the American Aviation Committee, made at Atlanta. According to messages received here, Clark Howell declared that notwithstanding the Macon disaster, he stands firm on the recommendations made by his committee concerning the construction of an airship for a trans-Atlantic passenger service and the formation of a private company to co-operate with the German Zeppelin group.

Howell pointed to the successful journeys of the Graf Zeppelin under Dr. Eckener and said: "If the Germans can do it, we can do it."—Transocean Kuo Min.

DUTCH CONFIDENCE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)
Amsterdam, Feb. 14.

The President of the Dutch syndicate for the establishment of airship communication to Netherlands India, A. Broussing, the a syndicate of pressmen that confidence in airships as a means of travelling has by no means been shaken through the loss of the Macon. President Broussing, fully sharing Dr. Eckener's view, considered it improbable that the disaster was merely due to unfavourable weather conditions. This, he said, is strikingly refuted by the fact that the Graf Zeppelin on numerous occasions ran into violent thunderstorms without encountering mishap. The Macon's loss, he continued, would thus have to be traced to causes which will form the subject of investigation on the part of the Dutch syndicate.—Transocean Kuo Min.

NEW ZEPPELIN PLANS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)
Friedrichshafen, Feb. 13.

That the news of the disaster to the American airship Macon had been received here with much regret but that it would in no way influence the Zeppelin Company's plans for the future development of the trans-Atlantic airship service, was the statement made by Captain Schiller, the well known commander of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin on numerous trans-Atlantic flights, in an interview with a representative of Transocean on Wednesday.

Capt. Schiller pointed out in the course of the conversation that the sensation caused by such accidents was chiefly due to the small number of airships now in use. If some country had, for instance, 50 airships, the loss of one would certainly not cause so much uproar unless it resulted in considerable loss of life. There is still a great number of railway accidents occurring annually but no one has been deterred from travelling on railways, said Capt. Schiller who refused to venture his opinion as to what consequences the United States are likely to draw from this latest misfortune. He added, however, that the new Zeppelin is now nearing completion and will be equipped with Diesel engines instead of petrol engines thus practically eliminating the danger of fire or explosion even if hydrogen is employed as lifting gas.—Transocean Kuo Min.

KING'S SILVER JUBILEE

Addresses By Houses Of Parliament

London, Feb. 14.

An impressive ceremonial will be observed when on May 9. Their Majesties the King and Queen will visit Westminster Hall to receive loyal addresses of congratulation from both Houses of Parliament on the celebration of their Silver Jubilee. Members of the House of Lords and House of Commons and officials of both Houses, His Majesty's Judges and members of the British Parliaments overseas who are then visiting London will be present to a total number of about two thousand.

The King's speech in reply to addresses read by the Lord Chancellor for the Lords and the Speaker for the Commons will be broadcast and a complete gramophone record of the proceedings will be made.

There will be no decorations in Westminster Hall, but the beautiful roof of the Chamber, which despite its great age is in a splendid state of preservation, will be floodlit.—British Wireless.

HAUPTMANN GUILTY OF MURDER

Aged Mother Believes In His Innocence

Berlin, February 14.

"It is untrue my boy has done this beastly crime." In a voice broken with sobbing, Hauptmann's seventy-year-old mother made this statement to Reuter's correspondent at Kamenz, Saxony, when she heard of the verdict.

She added: "It is a terrible blow to me. I pray to God on my knees that He may guide those responsible in the United States to find the real culprit."

Mrs. Hauptmann is convinced that her son was the victim of the American authorities who she thinks have done everything to construct the case against him at all costs.

"There is a poor boy opposed by the rich. How could he emerge from such a fight victoriously? It is a hopeful thing that Mr. Kelly is appealing." The old lady nearly fainted when she heard the verdict.—Reuter.

Flemington, Feb. 14.

A verdict that Bruno Hauptmann was guilty of murder in the first degree, involving the death penalty, was returned by the jury at the protracted trial of the accused for kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby in 1932.

The verdict came at 10.30 p.m. just as Judge Trenchard was preparing to go home and when all present had concluded that the jury was in a hopeless deadlock, the sheriff suddenly announced that a verdict had been reached. The judge has set the week beginning March 18 for the electrocution.

Mr. Edward Kelly, counsel for the defence, announced that he will appeal to the highest court.

NATION'S INTEREST
The entire nation waited tensely with ears to wireless sets throughout the evening for the verdict.

When the jury fled back into the court the announcer started describing the scene as though it were a football game. Then came the announcement that Hauptmann had been found guilty with a recommendation for mercy. Subsequently this was corrected and listeners were informed that Hauptmann had been sentenced to death.

Everywhere the crowds around the various wireless sets greeted the verdict in silence. When the foreman announced the verdict Mr. Kelly asked the jurors to be polled, whereupon each in turn responded "guilty of murder in the first degree."

DEATH SENTENCE

Hauptmann stood as straight as a soldier between the guards as Judge Trenchard sentenced him to death, then he tottered slightly, but stood as though he wanted to speak after which he walked slowly and sadly to his cell.

Anna Hauptmann, with tears streaming down her cheeks, cried: "There is nothing left for me." She then dried her eyes, pushed through the thronged court-room and left by a rear door, saying "I still have hope."

Judge Large, one of the prosecutors, stated: "The verdict is fully justified by the evidence."—Reuter.

Germany's Reply Prepared

Berlin, Feb. 14.

The German reply to the Anglo-French proposals is expected to be in the hands of diplomatic circles concerned to-morrow or the day after, but it is doubtful whether it will be published at present as many points need further clarification.

ATLANTIC AIR SERVICE

British Interest In Project

London, Feb. 13.

The Under-Secretary for Air, Sir Philip Sassoon, stated in the House of Commons to-day that he understood an order for the construction of a flyingboat, suitable for use on the Bermuda-New York section of the projected trans-Atlantic air service via the Azores and Bermuda, in conjunction with Pan-American Airways has been placed by Imperial Airways.

Preparations for British participation in the project were being expedited as far as possible, he said.

Replying to a supplementary question, Sir Philip Sassoon said a great deal of ground organisation, including a new air port in Bermuda, had to be done and permission of the Portuguese authorities to use the Azores obtained.

NEW R.A.F. SQUADRONS

Preparations are in hand to ensure necessary equipment, which will be available to keep pace with the formation of new squadrons of the Royal Air Force, already announced. Sir Philip said a substantial increase in the financial provisions for the supply of aircraft and engines which would be required in 1935 would be reflected in the estimates shortly to be presented.—British Wireless.

COMMUNISTS IN HOLLAND

Concentration Camp Planned

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

The Hague, Feb. 13.

The Dutch Government is planning the establishment of a concentration camp for all aliens endangering public peace and order, according to an official announcement here on Wednesday. The decision is brought about by the annoying activities of numerous German Communists who found refuge in Holland and who abused the Dutch hospitality by stirring up trouble everywhere and attempting to organise new Communist cells in Germany.

The emigres are co-operating closely with the Dutch Communist street demonstrations, especially in Amsterdam, which are often staged in support of the demand for the release of Communist prisoners in Germany. Thus it has become increasingly evident that the German Communist emigres are a source of considerable unrest, and the Government is determined to put an end to this state of affairs by establishing a concentration camp on the model of the Belgian concentration camp at Merselap which for some months past has been serving as accommodation for undesirable and politically dangerous aliens.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Shanghai, Feb. 13.

Tremendous interest has been aroused here in a case in which Fred Ellis, former Hong Kong resident, is charged in the British Police Court with unlawfully selling tickets in a lottery not authorised by any Act of Parliament and contrary to the Lottery Act of 1823 and the Vagrancy Act of 1824.

The tickets were those in connection with the International Country Club New Year Sweepstake.

During the hearing of the case which began yesterday the Registrar, Mr. C. H. Haines, intimated that he considered the Lottery Act applicable to British subjects in Shanghai.

Considerable legal argument ensued on this point, after which witnesses were called.

The case was eventually adjourned until February 19.—Reuter.

THEFTS FROM CHINA FLEET CLUB

An unemployed youth who gave his age as seventeen by Chinese reckoning was brought before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones yesterday on seven counts of theft from the China Fleet Club. The case was transferred to the Juvenile Remand Court, where accused will appear after 48 hours remand.

The charges against the defendant were: (a) larceny on the night of February 7 of a gold pocket watch, property of James Fernie, H.M.S. Adventure; (b) receiving a gold pocket watch, property of James Fernie on February 12 at the China Fleet Club; (c) larceny on February 12 of two war medals, property of C.P.O. Humphreys, H.M.S. Adventure; (d) larceny on February 12 of $15 in banknotes property of E. R. A. J. W. Ingle, H.M.S. Berwick; (e) larceny on February 12 of a wrist watch, property of W. H. Bowen, chief stoker of H.M.S. Berwick; (f) larceny on February 12 of one Masonic jewel, property of E. A. A. Fleming, H.M.S. Duchess; and (g) larceny on February 12 of a pocket watch property of Able Seaman M. J. Helen, H.M.S. Decoy.

The defendant admitted all the charges. Acting Inspector J. Fender said defendant was unemployed. He told the police he was born in New York, although his mother stated that he was born at Sun Mu. About 2.15 a.m. on February 12, the defendant was seen in a room in the China Fleet Club by an Engine Room Artificer, who informed the marine on duty. A search was made, and about an hour later, defendant was found in a bath room with his shoes off. He was searched and all the property found on him. He had entered all the rooms and stolen the property.

Defendant's mother said his father was away in America. She had sold defendant, when he was six years old, to his father, and defendant himself had also been to America, and he returned in July last year. His father sent him about $50 or $60 from time to time.

Defendant stated that his guardian was Mr. T. B. Rolland, of the Hunghom Broadcasting Station. He was 16 years old by Chinese reckoning, but when he obtained his passport in America his age was put down as 14. His uncle in Canton had his passport.

Mr. Wynne-Jones transferred defendant to the Juvenile Court, and asked Inspector to make enquiries.

TINSMITH CHARGED

An allegation that he had demanded $150 with menaces was made in a case brought against Lai Wah Tong, 25, a tinsmith, when he appeared before Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Central Magistracy yesterday. The complainant was Chan Kam-pu, managing partner of the Kong Sing firm of glass dealers, 256 Queen's Road Central.

Mr. W. Keith Robinson appeared for the complainant, while Mr. H. L. Denny was for the defence.

Mr. Denny applied for a reduction of bail which had been fixed at $1,000. The defendant was Hong Kong-born and had three aliases and other property.

Mr. Robinson intimated that he had no objection to bail of $500.

The Magistrate fixed bail at $500 and remanded the accused for one week.

Detective-Inspector M. Murphy was present on behalf of the police.

INDIAN WITHOUT PASSPORT

Appearing on remand before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, Dhama Ram, an Indian from Canton, was fined $25 and expelled from the Colony for having entered without a valid passport. A letter from the British Consulate in Canton was handed to the Magistrate by Sergeant Russell, in which it was stated that the defendant had made no application for a visa or passport to Hong Kong. Defendant said he had made an application, but had been refused.

A charge of causing an annoyance and obstruction by selling theatre tickets on the roadway near the Kai U Fong Theatre was admitted by a youth, Lai Chung, aged 18, when he appeared before Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Central Magistracy yesterday. Inspector Ellis stated that a complaint had been received from the theatre. It appeared that defendant purchased tickets early on for 20 cents and sold them for 35 cents each. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $10, or fourteen days' imprisonment.

UNMUZZLED DOGS Fines Imposed

A fine of $5 was imposed by Mr. E. W. Hamilton on Mr. Wallace Harper of Harper & Co., when he appeared yesterday at the Kowloon Magistracy summoned with allowing his dog to be out without a muzzle.

Defendant admitted the offence but stated that the dog was not a black chow but a cocker spaniel and that it had been inoculated by an unregistered veterinary surgeon.

Another Case

Summoned for a similar offence, Christensen, of Christensen and Co., was fined $5. He also pleaded that the dog had been inoculated, but admitted that the inoculation was not done by a registered surgeon.

THEFTS FROM MOTOR CARS

Sentence of twelve months' imprisonment in all was the sentence passed by Mr. E. W. Hamilton yesterday on Tin Hing, 23, unemployed who was convicted of the theft of a radiator cap and two windscreen wipers.

Defendant was alleged to have stolen a radiator cap from private car No. 3929, the property of Mr. D. A. Corlett, at the Salisbury Car Park; a windscreen wiper from private car No. 495, the property of Mr. W. J. Brown; and a windscreen wiper from private car No. 2097, the property of Mr. I. J. Nell, at Hankow Road.

Two men, Lo Wing, 30, and Li Fat, 38, were charged with receiving the cap and wipers knowing them to have been stolen.

Lo Wing pleaded that he did not know that the radiator cap had been stolen. He was a car driver and, knowing Tin Hing to be also a driver, he did not think there would be any harm in his keeping it for Tin Hing.

Further he stated that he was employed, and called his father to testify to his character.

The police had nothing against him and his Worship decided to give him the benefit of the doubt. He was accordingly discharged.

Tin Hing admitted the three charges of theft and was sentenced to six months on each count, the first two to run consecutively. He had a previous conviction for theft.

The remaining defendant, Li Fat, was given a month for receiving stolen property.

FALSE BATTERY TRADE MARKS

Judgment Reserved

The resumed hearing of the case against the Waiman Battery, of Nos. 15-23 Lanchuk Road who were summoned in respect to the alleged application of false trade marks to batteries, and the possession of goods for sale with false trade marks was continued before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

The complainant Li Chung-shan, of the Truelight Manufacturing Company and the Wing Fung Hong firm, was represented by Mr. H. G. Sheldon instructed by Mr. J. B. Prentiss of Messrs. Hastings and Company, while Mr. G. S. Hugh-Jones of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist appeared for the defendants.

At yesterday's hearing the defendant, Lo Chow, was cross-examined by Mr. Sheldon and admitted that he was a partner in the Java Flashlight factory. Sometime last year defendant did take a trip to Java in connection with the battery business. Defendant denied that he opened the Tak Yuen firm with the intention of exporting goods with false trade marks affixed. Further cross-examined, defendant admitted that there was similarity in the trade marks of the false and genuine ones.

The few trade marks wrappers found on his premises were left over by a man who had brought a bundle to his house.

After this both counsel addressed his Worship. Mr. Hugh Jones contended that although he had a prima facie case to answer, his client's innocence of guilt had been proved when the witness's evidence was not shaken in the least, quoting laws in support of his argument.

His Worship reserved judgment.

KIPLING 'A SORT OF BURNE-JONES CHILD'

'McTurk's' Memory

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 28.

Speaking at a meeting in London of the Kipling Society, Mr. G. C. Beresford, the original McTurk of "Stalky and Company," said that Kipling as a child was not a bit like the children he wrote about.

"He was more in the nature of a 'prig,'" said Mr. Beresford. "A Burne-Jones sort of character. Where he got his more robust type of child from I do not know."

Miss F. Macdonald, a cousin of Kipling, said that Kipling had

Miss Macdonald said she remembered when Kipling invented the "Just So" stories.

"He told them to his own children," she added. "He would have them on his knee and would make the stories up as he went along. He would put out his cheeks and make gestures with his hands to illustrate his stories, remarking, 'Just So,' and that is how the stories got their name."

H.K.F.A. COUNCIL MEETING

Popular Secretary's Death

The Monthly meeting of the Hong Kong Football Association Council took place last night at the Sports Club with Major C. M. Manners, O.B.E., in the chair.

Before the Council sat Major Manners informed the gathering that he had received the sad news of the death of Mr. G. T. May, the Hon. Secretary of the Association, and as a mark of respect to the memory of Mr. May, Major Manners asked the gathering to stand up in silence for a moment.

SHIELD DRAW

The semi-finals of the Senior and Junior Shields were then drawn:

Senior
R.A. or South China "B" v. China Athletic v. S. China, "A" or Club

Junior
R. Navy v. R. E. E. Lancs v. S. China or R.A.

All matches to be played on March 18.

Changes

Mr. R. Hall who is due shortly to go home on furlough tendered his resignation as vice president of the Association and Mr. T. A. Mitchell was elected in his stead.

By Mr. Mitchell's election a vacancy was caused in the Emergency Committee which gap was filled by Mr. T. G. Stokes.

Capt. Williams and Capt. Fleetwood who are both leaving the Colony were each presented with a silver cigarette box by Major Manners who made brief speeches referring to the good work put in by both and wished them both contentment and luck in the home country. Both recipients made replies thanking the speaker for his kind remarks.

Capt. Williams' seat on the Emergency Committee was filled by his successor, Capt. C. Bennet who was welcomed by the Council.

An application by the Kowloon Chinese Athletic Association for affiliation to the Association was granted.

Interpret Figures

A report on the Interpret Games was made by Capt. Hague which stated that the Interpret receipts on the first day constituted a record gate for Hong Kong.

The total receipts for three games played was $10,571.60. Net

THE NEXT TEST MATCHES

Mr. W. H. Jeanes, secretary to the Australian Cricket Board of Control made it clear in a statement that the Board had not passed any resolution regarding the "bodyline" incidents mentioned in the manager's report.

No message would be sent to the M.C.C.

"So far as we are concerned," said Mr. Jeanes, "the matter is over."

Mr. Jeanes further announced that the reports of the manager and treasurer had been considered, and the Board had arrived at various recommendations as regards the conduct of tours for future consideration.

Next Tour

The Board acceded to the M.C.C.'s request that the team to tour Australia during the 1936-37 season should leave Australia a week earlier than did the 1932-33 team, for the purpose of visiting New Zealand.

A sub-committee was appointed to consider and report to the Board what recommendations should be made by the Board to the M.C.C. with regard to the duration of future Test matches in England.

Consideration will be given to the following:

(1) Conditions as played this year.

(2) Playing all Tests to a finish.

(3) Extending the first four Tests to five days and playing the fifth to a finish if at the end of the fourth the difference of matches won is not greater than one.

The Board decided to thank Sir Douglas Shields, Doctor Lee and others, for services rendered during the tour of the Australians in England this year.

The financial position of the Association was sound at the present moment.

Capt. Hague put in several recommendations for future games which, the chairman said, will be considered. Capt. Hague was heartily thanked for his work regarding the arrangements and care put in by him with reference to the Interpret.

Mr. C.M.S. Alves was asked to take over the post of secretary of the Association for the time being until definite arrangements were made.

DOCTOR ON TUBERCULOSIS

"I have made a collection of the guaranteed cures for tuberculosis," Dr. R. Hilton, assistant director of the Medical Professional Unit at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, stated when lecturing to the Winter School for Health Visitors, at Bedford College, Regent's Park.

"I have fifteen of them," he continued, "and I have found that they are all absolutely useless. All they consist of is a little opium to stop the cough."

"It is surprising how many people will spend good money on patent medicines which, it is claimed, will cure any disease instead of spending that money upon good food, such as butter, fresh vegetables and fruit.

"If most of the things in our chemist shops were blown sky high tomorrow, we should never miss them."

Dr. Hilton referred to the dangers of infection from unpasteurized milk and said: "Bovine tuberculosis would stop tomorrow if all the women in Britain could be made either to boil their milk or to pasteurize it before applying it to the family."

MURDER IN VILLAGE

Armed Men Attack Shopkeepers

An attack on a shop in a lonely village at the Salkung district, New Territories, by a gang of armed men, believed to be some five or six in number, has resulted in the death of one Wong Fook.

It appears that at about 10.30 on Wednesday night, Wong Fook, the brother of the man who lost his life, noticed some men breaking into the shop. He woke his brother, and the latter quickly armed himself with two knives and attempted to offer resistance to the intruders. He was overpowered and hacked to death.

His brother who had advised the deceased not to offer any resistance, took refuge and escaped unscathed.

It was at first reported that the object of the intruders was robbery, but a fuller examination of the facts seem to indicate a visit for the purpose of revenge.

The police are investigating the affair.

TELEVISION AND AIR POST

P.M.G. On The Future

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 26.

A striking outline of the remarkable development in Empire air postal services, to be expected within a couple of years, was given by the Postmaster-General (Sir Kingsley Wood) when he addressed the Bath Chamber of Commerce at their annual dinner.

For a really great Empire scheme two things were essential, he said. The first was a much greater frequency in the air mail services. The second a cheap flat Empire air postal rate.

He hoped that, in 1937, for the sum of, say, 1gd, an Imperial correspondent in this country would have his letter transported half-way round the globe within a week instead of the month which it had hitherto taken. He would be enabled to obtain a reply from his Australian correspondent in little over a fortnight. India would be little further away postally than Hungary, Sweden or Spain.

Last year he appointed a committee, under the chairmanship of Lord Selsdon, to advise him under what conditions any public service of television should be established in this country.

He hoped to present the report to Parliament at an early date with a view to its immediate publication. He would study it with the closest attention, and with every desire encourage the development of this latest marvel of scientific achievement.

No doubt much preparatory work would have to be done before a public television service, however limited in scope, could be started.

But if, as he hoped might be the case, the committee had been able to recommend a definite scheme for the introduction of a broadcast television service on lines which the Government could approve, they might look forward to the first steps being taken during this year towards the realisation of such a scheme.

GEOPLANARIANS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 26.

Mr. William Edgell, who devoted 50 years of his life to the attempt to keep his oath to his dying father that he would prove the earth flat, belonged to a dwindling but enthusiastic sect.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling has immortalised them in one of the greatest of his short stories, "The Village that Voted the Earth Was Flat."

In the story the genuine Geoplanarian Society—as opposed to the fake one taken down to the village by a great showman to secure the vote, had a magnificent anthem. It ran:

Hear their truth our tongues are telling,
Spread their light from shore to shore,
God hath given man a dwelling,
Flat and flat for evermore.
When their primal dark retreated,
When their deeps were undesignated,
He with rule and level meted,
Habitation for mankind.

The ungrateful villagers, disappointed to find that the fake Geoplanarians turned nasty at this fresh intrusion, and forced the society to beat a hasty retreat.

BUILT LIKE A CAR

Robot Controls That Ensure Safety

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 26.

Aeroplane constructed on the lines of a motor-car, embodying similar principles such as foot acceleration and foot brakes, and possessing robot controls for taking off and landing, are the machines of the near future.

The announcement has just been made that a well-known London aircraft designer, who wishes to remain anonymous, has plans for building such machines.

These principles, if adopted generally by aircraft manufacturers, will simplify flying and enable thousands of young men and women to learn to handle machines with absolute safety after a few hours of instruction.

It will also help to lower the fees for instruction and insurance purposes.

To-day the greatest difficulty for pilots under instruction is the "taking off" and "landing" lessons.

Showing The Speed

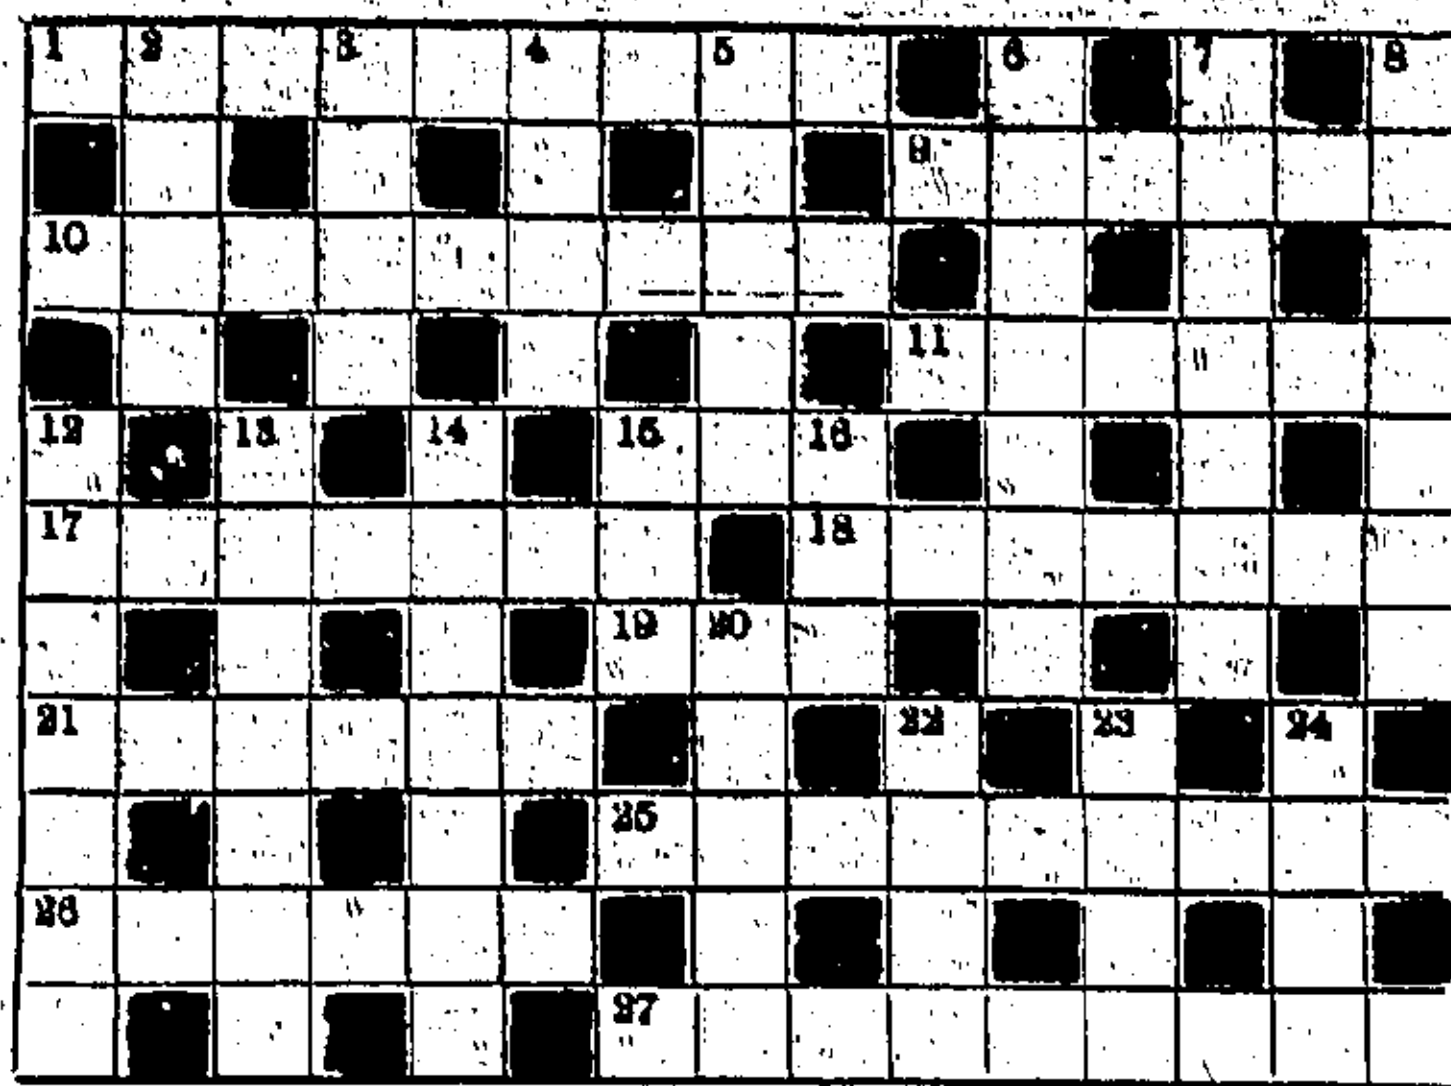

Another feature that is likely to be incorporated on machines will be a simple tell-tale dashboard. Engine revolutions will not be marked on a counter, as at present used, but speeds will be worked on a notch system. This will leave the pilot with the compass as his only complicated instrument.

For more than five years now, the R.A.F. have been using robot pilots, which long-distance flyers have found to be of invaluable service on their record flights.

It is understood that the Air Ministry have heard more details about this machine, but at the moment nothing definite as to when the first plane will be constructed, or by whom, can be told.

When interviewed the designer said that he had his plans designed and ready, and that the machine he had thought out was more or less fool-proof.

FASTEST SUBMARINE

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Jan. 26.

On her trials she made 22 knots, thanks to her fast-running Diesel engines of 10,000 h.p., the

ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN!

ZAM-BUK—THE PAIN SOOTHER, JERM-DESTROYER AND SKIN-GROWER

Wherever you are—at home, at work, or on the sports field—"Accidents Will Happen." Cuts, bruises, burns and all such like injuries call for prompt treatment with Zam-Buk. This great heral ointment not only soothes an injury, but it allays any inflammation or swelling and arrests bleeding.

Zam-Buk also incorporates a powerful natural antiseptic which destroys bad germs and, at the same time, excludes there from the flesh. Thus Zam-Buk prevents all risk of festering and blood-poisoning and ensures quick, clean healing with strong new skin.

Scientifically compounded from certain valuable and highly-refined herbal extracts, and guaranteed free from rancid animal fat, Zam-Buk is by far the safest and purest antiseptic skin ointment for our climate. It is well described as the finest skin ointment in the world.

For eczema, ulcers, bad legs, ringworm, scalp sores, poisoned wounds, abscesses, itch, insect bites, piles, aches, pains, rheumatism, cuts, burns, scalds, Hong Kong Foot and other injuries, Zam-Buk has been used successfully for over 30 years. design of which is an Admiralty secret.

During the war, it is true, we built submarines of 23 to 24 knots, but these, the "K" class, were steam-driven and for that reason not really suitable for underwater work. They have long since been scrapped.

The Thames's sister-boat Severn, now completing, will be even faster. A third vessel of the "River" class, the Clyde, was launched last March.

Size in a submarine, however, is not necessarily an advantage. Many naval officers prefer the small "Swordfish" boats, only one-third as large as the Thames, which are notable for their quick diving and easy handling above and below water.

THE EXCHANGE
MARKET

MESSRS. ROZA BROS.

Silver prices were again unchanged yesterday, the quotations remaining at 24 7/16 for Ready and 24 9/16 for forward. Silver advice reported the market as being featureless. The tone was steady, America and India were reported to have bought at a fraction over the quoted rates. In America the rate was unchanged at 54 1/2 for Spot.
The New York/London cross-rate opened at 4.88 and closed at the same rate.

Market.

There were sellers after the opening at 1/9 11/16 for cash and 1/9 1/2 March. Subsequently offers at 1/9 1/2 were accepted for near delivery followed by transactions at the same rate for March and April. The market closed at lunch time with sellers at 1/9
11/16 February/March and 1/9 1/2
May/June, buyers at 1/9 1/2 February/April and 1/9 15/16 May/June.

U. S. Dollars

Business was done during the course of the morning at 44 1/2 for cash and 44 3/16 April. Later transactions were arranged at 44
3/16 for second half of March and 44 5/16 May. The market closed at 1 p.m. with sellers at 44 1/16
February/March and 44 1/2 April, buyers at 44 3/16 February/March and 44 1/2 April.

Shanghai Dollars.

Sellers were quoted at 120 1/2 for near, buyers at 120 1/2 for cash.

Shanghai Market.

Early advice indicated sellers at 1/5 15/16 for near and 1/5 1/2 for forward. Subsequently the selling rate rose to 1/6 for near and 1/5
